GREAT demonstration for Gov. Smith in New York on his homecoming from the West yesterday. All demonstrations for trans-Atlantic fliers, Channel swimmers and others eclipsed.

And the demonstration tonight at Madison Square Garden will be even greater.

HERBERT HOOVER starts west confident that the people of the United States will vote "to continue prosperity."

THE statement occasionally published in this column that the Zeppelin is not the type for ocean travel is confirmed by Dr. Eckener, commander of the giant "Graf Zeppelin."

He admits that at one time in his return trip, in a 90-mile gale over Newfoundland, the big dirigible risked being torn in two.

HE IS "through with the present craft as a commercial liner," and plans for a more powerful craft.

The successful "mightier craft" will not be huge gas bags, buffeted by the winds. No amount of power attached to such a Zep could make it safe.

THE all-metal dirigible, made of duralumin, originally planned at Henry Ford's factory in Detroit, and now under construction by the United States, may provide safety through rigidity up to a certain size.

But the heavier-than-air plane will solve the flying problem.

HERBERT HOOVER expresses the hope of engineering science when, congratulating 20,000 citizens of Maryland on our national prosperity, he says of poverty, "We now hope that its abolishment, so far as the United States is concerned, is among the possibilities of the future."

MR. HOOVER speaks with conservatism, in a country that with proper production and distribution could easily provide ten times what the present population requires.

CANNIBALISM has been abolished: that took thousands of centuries. Slavery has been abolished: that took thousands of years.

Poverty will be abolished, and that will be the BEGINNING of civilization.

THE real problem is to abolish ignorance, superstition and selfishness. That task will take a million years. Fortunately, the human race has many millions of years ahead of it. It is in its infancy now, only 12,000 years from the late stone age.

IN THE magazine "Eugenics," official organ of the American Eugenics Society, organized to encourage the production of better children, Gov. Smith is quoted as follows:

"Health of bodily and moral fiber, decency, loyalty and sympathy must exist in ideal parents, and these qualities are usually present in the parents of those men and women whose development from however humble origins seems to belie the laws of heredity."

Physical health, in mothers especially, is important, since the child takes its physical body directly from the mother. Lincoln's mother was a powerful woman, nearly six feet tall. Charlemagne's mother, whom Villon in his "Nows of Yester Year" poem calls "Berthe aux Grands Pieds" ("Bertha of the Big Feet"), was the powerful mother of a powerful son.

BUT there is no rule that holds always.

The "moral" rule that Gov. Smith lays down is sometimes missing. Leonardo, the greatest

BRATIANU RESIGNS AS RUMANIAN PREMIER

VIENNA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Vintilla Bratianu, premier of Rumania since the death of his brother, Ion, on November 24, 1927, resigned today.

The three principal leaders of the opposition parties, Julio Maniu, of the National Peasant party; Gen. Ffoza Averescu, of the Peoples party, and Nicholas Jorga, of the National party, 18 will be received by the regency this afternoon.

It is probable that M. Maniu will be asked to form a cabinet in which event Nicholas Titulescu, who recently retired from the Bratianu cabinet, will become foreign minister.

Mellon Doesn't Want Job of Ambassador

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Secretary of the Treasury Melion was at a loss today to explain how reports originated that he would be appointed new American ambassador to Great Britain.

He told friends he did not want the job, and was not qualified for it by experience, disposition or desire.

RETURNED THUG BEGINS 21-YR. TERM HOUR LATER

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Nov. 3.—Eugene Garnett, 40, Negro bandit who held up passengers in the parlor car of a Michigan Central train here last Monday evening, today began serving a 5-to-21-year term in the Indiana state prison here. In less than one hour after Garnett was brought here by Capt. Charles Johnson, of the Chicago Police Department, from Rock Island, where he was arrested, he was sentenced and on his way to prison.

CAMPAIGN AT CLIMAX TONIGHT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—The final salvos of campaign oratory will be fired tonight throughout the nation, signalizing the end of the most turbulent and remarkable presidential contest in the history of American politics.

The tumult and the shouting is just about over. Ahead lies decision.

Gov. Smith will close his active campaigning tonight, in his own New York with a speech in Madison Square Garden, which will be a summation of his whole fight for the presidency. It will be a smashing, aggressive speech and an historic occasion, with the entire nation in the audience.

While Gov. Smith is delivering his final thrust, his opponent, Herbert Hoover, will be traveling westward on the longest journey that any presidential candidate ever undertook in order to cast his vote.

ST. LOUIS HAILS HOOVER

Secretary Hoover delivered his last major speech of the campaign in St. Louis last night before an enthusiastic audience that hailed him as the next President, and heard from him an outline of what he expects to accomplish after the fourth of March, next.

No sooner was the Republican candidate off the air, than Gov. Smith was on it. His next to last

GIRL SLAIN, WOUNDS PROVE

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Nov. 3.—Definitely abandoning the theory that Miss Elfrieda Knaak, former co-ed and Sunday school teacher, had burned herself in the furnace of the police station at Lake Bluff, authorities, convinced that the girl was murdered, today started a comprehensive checking of all clues that might lead to the slayer.

With the report of a coroner's physician that the girl had been struck over the head and that her right arm had been broken prior to the burning, detectives announced these facts precluded any possibility that the girl might have burned herself, as she confessed, to "purify herself."

Edward Hargreaves, head of a private detective agency assigned to the case, stated today that he believed he was in possession of positive information that Miss Knaak was not burned in the basement of the police station, but had been tortured elsewhere and had been carried to the basement and left for dead.

UNCOVER EVIDENCE

A maze of evidence to support this belief was believed to have been unearthed by authorities.

The finding of a light-colored hairpin (Elfrieda was a blonde) on the stairway leading to the attic of the police station late yesterday added to the baffling mystery.

Other elements which cast further doubt upon the victim's story that she had voluntarily placed herself

Wet Field To Help Pitt

With rain this morning coming along just in time to make the gridirons at the Pitt Stadium and on the Bluff muddy and slippery, it appears that the Pitt-Syracuse battle and the Westminster-Duquesne embroglio carded this afternoon as the city's collegiate football menu are going to have rather nasty going, with the crowds at each place cut down.

The Pitt-Syracuse game appears to be a toss-up, following the Orange's tie with Penn State last week. Led by one of the East's leading bids for All-America honors, Harold Baysinger, Syracuse, well-drilled under the tutelage of Lou Andreas, is here to give the Panthers of Jock Sutherland a real test. A fine brand of football should ensue despite the heavy grounds. However, Syracuse's powerful aerial attack may not work to its advantage on the slippery field.

The game today will start at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30 as in the past.

Elmer Layden's Duquesne squad is somewhat crippled for its conference battle with the Titans of Westminster, who handed Thiel one on the chin last week.

The Bluffites are out to win, however, for victory will put them into a tie for second place with their opponents in the conference ranking.

Carnegie Tech is enjoying a day of rest today, being represented by scouts at the Georgetown-New York U. and Penn State-Notre Dame games. New York U., Georgetown and Notre Dame remain to be played by the Tartans.

Andy Kerr and his Washington and Jefferson gallants are at Easton, where they tangle with Herb McCracken's Lafayette steam roller.

SOPHOMORE CHOKED TO DEATH IN HOME

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Schoolboy friends of pretty 15-year-old Alice Josst, dark-haired sophomore of Richmond High School, Staten Island, who was found beaten and strangled in the bedroom of her home, were questioned today by the police, who were attempting to solve one of the most baffling murder mysteries in years.

Alice's body, fully clothed, was found partly under the bed. Pillows and a comforter were piled on the floor in an effort to conceal the body. On the right side of her head was the mark of a blunt instrument. Around her neck, wound about twice, was a piece of insulated wire from an electric iron.

None of the doors or windows in the Josst home had been forced. The girl was alone when she was slain.

MURDER EPIDEMIC

The strangling of Alice was one of a wave of unprecedented murders that have swept the nation in the last 36 hours. They included:

THOUGHT MURDERED -:- "SPIRIT LOVER" AS ACTOR -:- FURNACE PYRE

ELFRIEDA KNAAK

Today Lake County (Ill.) coroner gives credence to a murder theory in the death of Elfrieda Knaak, 30-year-old school teacher who sought, she said from her hospital cot, self-immolation in the flames of Lake Bluff (Ill.) police station furnace. Physicians report she had received a blow on the head that caused brain concussion.

CHARLES W. HITCHCOCK

In her pain, the girl named Charles W. Hitchcock, 45, former film actor and present night policeman at Lake Bluff, as her "psychic lover." Hitchcock is married and has four children. At the time of her burning, he was bedridden with a broken leg.

IN MOVIE STUDIOS

About 10 years ago Hitchcock played with Beverly Bayne in movie studios in Chicago. Here is one of the scenes in which he appeared with Miss Bayne. In an interview with Miss Knaak just before her death, Hitchcock failed to elicit for police her story. She said she "didn't mean" to do it.

"PSYCHIC" LOVE PYRE

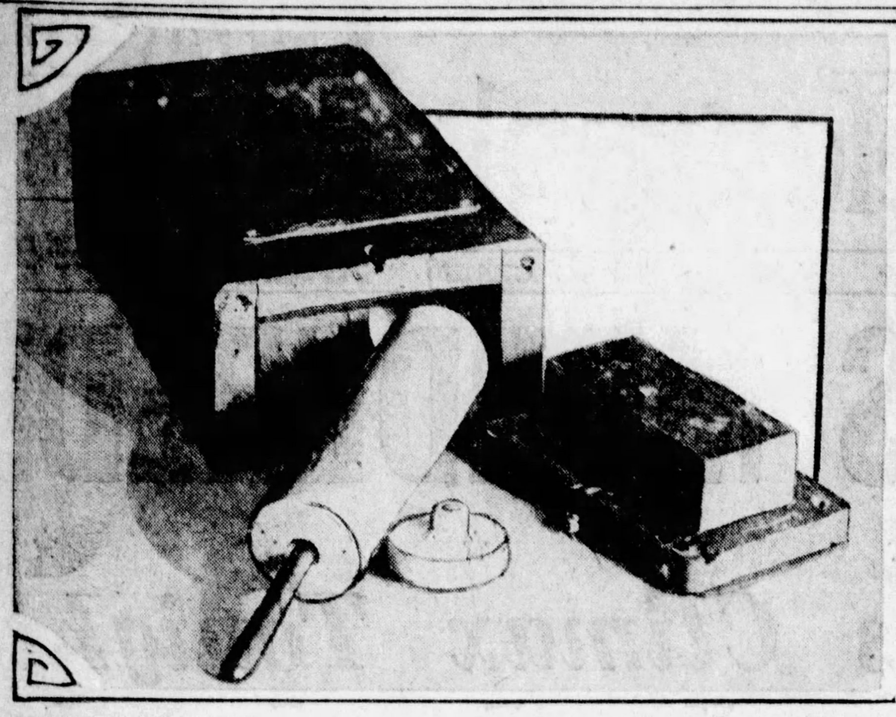
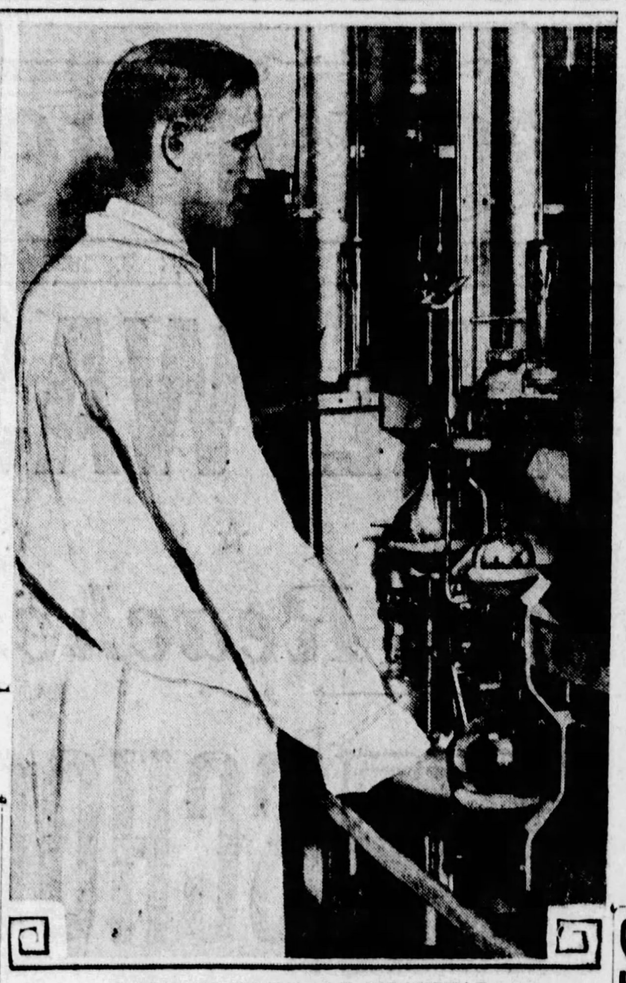
Here is the little furnace in which the girl said she tortured herself. Experiments with another girl since Miss Knaak's death prove it almost impossible. Police believe she was attacked, burned and then taken into the police station basement.

TINY BOX BRINGS $140,000 IN RADIUM TO TREAT CANCER



$140,000 IN TINY BOX

Today America is richer in radium by $140,000. In this tiny box, lined with lead and glass, there has come from the Congo, Africa, radium valued at that sum, more valuable by far than gold and silver.



RADIUM PUMP AT HOSPITAL

The radium is to be used for the treatment of dread cancer, on which medicine, the world over, wages a constant fight. Here, R. V. Lange, radium technician, operates the pump which isolates radium emanation for use in the cure of the disease. This is at the Cancer Institute, New York.

WEST GIVES HOOVER OVATION

By JAMES L. WEST,
Associated Press.

HOOVER TRAIN EN ROUTE TO PUEBLO, Col., Nov. 3.—Having completed his one campaign tour in the northern tier of border states, Herbert Hoover today passed into the normally Republican state of Kansas, the home of his running mate, Senator Charles Curtis.

Before him were a series of rear platform talks in the Sunflower State and the fourth and last address of his transcontinental trip. This will be delivered early tonight at Pueblo, Col., where his special train will make a stop of half an hour.

OVATION AT ST. LOUIS

During his two nights and a day of traveling from Washington, the Republican presidential candidate has been accorded enthusiastic receptions which culminated last night in a demonstration at St. Louis that rivaled the one given him at Madison Square Garden in the home city of his Democratic opponent when he closed his Eastern campaigning more than 10 days ago.

WORKS

Speaking at the Coliseum, Hoover presented to the agricultural West a plan for the formation of a new governmental institution, the purpose of which he said would be to meet not only the present farm needs, but also those which might arise in the future.

"We propose to create a Federal farm board composed of men of understanding and sympathy for the problems of agriculture, he said, and adding that this board should have "power to determine the facts, the causes, the remedies which should be applied to each and every one of the multitude of problems, as which we mass under the general term, 'the agricultural problem.'"

GIVEN BROAD POWERS

"This program further provides more than investigation," he declared. "It provides that the board shall have a broad authority to act and be authorized to assist in the further development of cooperative marketing, that it shall assist in the development of clearing houses for agricultural products, in the development of adequate warehousing facilities, in the elimination of wastes in distribution and in the solution of other problems, as they arise.

"But in particular the board is to build up with initial advances of capital from the government, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled stabilization corporations which will protect the farmer from depressions and the demoralization of summer and periods surpluses.

SPECIAL SESSION

"It is proposed that this board should have placed at its disposal such resources as are necesary to make its action effective."

In concluding his exposition of his farm relief plan, the nominee again expressed the hope that Congress at its December session would be able to pass remedial legislation, but said that if this should not be realized, he would call a special session of the new Congress. "In order that we might speedily arrive at a determination of the question before the next harvest."

VIOLENT GALES LASH NORTH PACIFIC COAST

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The Northern Pacific Coast today was in the path of a heavy rain storm, with rough weather forecast and high winds general from California to the Aleutian Islands. High tides and gales were predicted, and shipping was expected to suffer.

At Marshfield on the South Coast of Oregon a heavy storm swept out of the Southwest late yesterday, preceded by several hours of violent wind.

Hurricane storm warnings were posted at Astoria and shippers took precaution against a heavy blow.

STRONGER ZEPS COMING WITH U. S. HELP

By WILLIAM HILLMAN.
Universal Service Special Wireless.
(Copyright, 1928, By Universal Service.)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 2.—"New and better Zeppelins are needed to make commercial ocean flying practicable."

This is the substance of the view expressed today by Commodore Dr. Hugo Eckener, explaining his last night's speech which stirred aviation circles of Germany to a high pitch.

A bigger and more sturdy Zeppelin, built with financial aid from America, will probably be the first successor of the Graf Zeppelin, Dr. Eckener let it be felt.

But the Graf Zeppelin survived the round trip across the Atlantic in perfect condition, proving air worthy under the terrific strain in unusually bad weather conditions.

Repairs made at the Lakehurst naval air station, with the aid of American mechanics, were perfect.

"It would be nonsense for anyone to interpret my remarks as even hinting that the Graf Zeppelin is not airworthy," said Dr. Eckener. "The ship stood the overseas test wonderfully. What I have said, and what I repeat, is that our experiences on this trip has only proved that this type of airship is not the ultimate for regular trans-Atlantic air travel.

"This particular type of dirigible will be supplanted with sturdier and bigger ships that can stand the strain of such voyages without suffering at all."

Meanwhile Clarence Terhune, the boy stowaway, remains the greatest object of interest to the Germans. He was flooded today with telegrams and letters bringing new fabulous offers of all kinds from various promoters.

The passport difficulties of Terhune were cleared away today and he can leave Fridrichshaven without any hindrance from the authorities.

TRAIN SEIZED BY RIOTING STUDENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Several hundred Columbia University students, bursting with enthusiasm after attending a "pep rally," seized a Broadway subway train last night, causing the more prosaic passengers to flee to the street in alarm.

The students descended into the subway at One Hundred and Tenth street after attending a meeting designed to arouse enthusiasm over today's football game with Cornell. They vaulted the turnstiles, surged aboard an express train, extinguishing the lights in seven of the 10 cars and ripping the advertising signs from the sides.

Someone pulled the emergency cord near the One Hundred and Third street station, bringing the train to a stop and other passengers disembarked and walked along the tracks to the station. The students continued on the train to Times Square and later paraded down Fifth avenue, disrupting traffic. Two students were arrested on complaint of a motorist, but later were released.

upon a fiery alter for the purposes of "purification" in the police station furnace, were the failure to discover any traces of her hat, coat or other clothing in the ashes of the furnace. She was nude when discovered last Monday morning and asserted she had burned her clothing in the furnace where she had sought self-immolation. And there had been no odor of burning flesh at the time of her discovery.

In an interview with Charles W. Hitchcock, the man for whose love the girl had declared she had sought "purification by fire," Elfrieda practically repudiated her previous statements that the torture by flame had been self-inflicted.

Hitchcock visited her a few hours before her death yesterday morning, and when he asked: "Did you mean to do this?" she answered with the single word: "No."

This negative answer to a question upon which the entire mystery hinges has caused authorities to give credence to the murder theory.

PENNA. ADDS $176,000 TO HOOVER ELECTION FUND

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Further campaign contributions in the sum of $176,000 from Pennsylvania supporters of the Hoover-Curtis ticket have been acknowledged by the Republican national committee in its latest report filed with the clerk of the lower house of Congress.

The report covers receipts and expenditures from October 25 to and including October 31.

Of the amount, $15,000 came from Pittsburgh, while the greater portion, $150,000, was raised by the Pennsylvania Republican national committeeman, Gen. W. W. Atterbury. The remainder was made up in individual contributions from over the state. No contribution of less than $1,000 was listed.

Following is a list of the Pennsylvanians sending in contributions together with the amount:

Mrs. Francis J. Torrance, Sewickley, $1,000; E. G. Grace, Bethlehem, $10,000; Clarence M. Brown, Philadelphia, $2,000, and the following from Pittsburgh: Edw. Pitcairn, $1,000; W. F. Rockwell, $1,000; H. S. Wherrett, $1,500; R. V. Bingay, $1,000; R. L. Clause, $1,000; W. L. Clause, $2,500; H. B. Higgins, $1,000; Nathaniel Holmes, $2,000; Moore, Leonard & Lynch, $1,000, and Thomas B. Moreland, $1,000.

VOTE HUNT AT CLIMAX TONIGHT

major speech concerned itself with the state campaign in New York, where Gov. Smith's personally drafted candidate for Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, is making a whirlwind fight on a Smith platform. It is unusual for a presidential candidate on the eve of election to participate in a state campaign. But Gov. Smith is an unusual candidate, and New York is vital to his cause next Tuesday.

COOLIDGE FINALLY SPEAKS

President Coolidge, whose sphinx-like silence throughout the campaign has puzzled and disappointed the Hoover leaders, got into the fight at last with a statement indorsing the Hoover candidacy in warm terms and predicting its success.

The Democratic reply to this was that Mr. Coolidge's indorsement of Mr. Hoover would not have any particular effect at any time, and besides it came too late.

"The country has always assumed that Mr. Coolidge was for Mr. Hoover," said one Democratic leader. "Certainly no one thought he was for Gov. Smith. It means nothing."

However much it may or may not mean, the Hoover managers were mighty glad to have the Coolidge telegram today. They believe it means a lot.

The bitterness that is handmaiden to religious discussion again crept into the campaign today in its closing hours, when John J. Raskob, the Democratic national chairman, made public the "hot stuff," which, he charged, Senator George H. Moses, the Hoover eastern manager, sent into the South for publication in North Carolina newspapers.

This material, the author of which has been described as a former South Carolinian now doing editorial work in New York, consisted of an attack on the tenets of the Catholic Church, and a personal attack on Gov. Smith as well.

IGNORED BY WORK

Raskob said he made it public after the Republican chairman, Dr. Hubert Work, ignored the letter which Raskob sent him yesterday by special messenger. It is not unlikely that Gov. Smith will deal with the incident in his Madison Square Garden speech tonight. He has already twice lashed out at religious intolerance in major speeches at Oklahoma City early in the campaign and again at Baltimore this week.

Underneath all this fanfare of final oratory, charge and countercharge, recrimination and bitterness, the leaders of both parties maintained today a confidence in the result on Tuesday that is literally amazing.

The Republicans perhaps are more confident than the Democrats. Their confidence is bolstered up by the surface indications in their favor—the straw votes, the betting odds, and the other indicators that in previous years have shown which way the electoral winds are blowing.

FATHER SEES DAUGHTER DIE, SHOCK KILLS HIM

MAUD, Tex., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Walter Springer, 73, died of shock when he saw his daughter Olia, 32, fatally crushed by a falling tree yesterday.

SUITOR KILLS 3 WITH AX, THEN SELF

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Officers expressed belief today that jealousy and desire for revenge caused a rejected suitor to wipe out a family of three here and then kill himself after setting fire to the family's dwelling.

An ax was used to kill C. J. Bertola, retired grocer and member of a prominent and wealthy California family, and his wife and young daughter, Camille. The man who is supposed to have committed the murders and set the house afire was Charles Braker, 45. A body, identified as Braker's, was found with two of the others in the embers of the destroyed dwelling. It had a bullet wound in the head.

Braker had a divorced wife and son here. Sheriff E. Douglas Bills said the man rented an automobile and drove to the Bertola home. The car was standing in front of the house when neighbors discovered the fire.

The theory is that Braker went to the Bertola home, to settle matters, and ended by slaying the family and then shooting himself. Bertola was not killed instantly, but made his way from the burning house into the yard where he was found dead.

It is known that Braker had sought the hand of Miss Bertola. The former Mrs. Braker told police she believed Braker had homicidal tendencies. She said that when he was on a hunting trip with her once he tried to get her to put her head on a stump and threatened her with an ax.

POLICEMEN GET GLOVES FREE—IT'S ELECTION TIME

It was all a mistake about the Police Bureau intending to make traffic officers buy white gloves at $1.25 a pair—the city meant from the very first to buy the gloves and present them to the policemen.—Police Supt. P. P. Walsh.

And remember Cleveland and his administration and the panic. Anyhow, the policemen are working for Republicans, for a Republican administration, and ought to vote Republican.—Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

The foregoing information, in two doses, was administered to at least part of Pittsburgh's police force yesterday by Supt. Walsh and his superior, Director Clark, in person, policemen said today.

Supt. Walsh imparted the information about the gloves. Originally, Assistant Supt. Leo Coleman had ordered the traffic police to buy two pairs of gloves at $1.25 each, although the men contended they didn't want them in the first place and could buy them cheaper, if they had to get them. Then $500 was dug up from the city treasury to buy the gloves after resentment had become keen—and election day grew nearer.

Director Clark took care of the bread-and-butter portion of the speeches, according to patrolmen.

Asks Divorce After 39 Years of Waiting

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—After 39 years of waiting Mrs. Salome Jane Crawford has decided to seek a divorce. Mrs. Crawford is 85 years old.

Mrs. Crawford was married to a Union Army soldier in 1865 and he died in 1883. Five years later she was married to Charles Crawford. He left her the next year, she said, and never came back.

"I've waited 39 years," she told the court.

"So you want a divorce, so you may remarry?" Judge Joseph Sabath asked.

"Mercy, no," the little old lady smiled back at him. "Not me, any more."

of artists, with one exception, was the son of a poor peasant woman whom his father never married.

And William the Conqueror's mother was the daughter of a poor tanner, busy washing clothes in a brook, when the Duke of Normandy first saw her. He married her afterwards.

THE most important thing appears to be, first, a well developed brain; nothing can take the place of that. You cannot get genius from an inhabitant of the Congo in ten thousand generations.

Next to intelligence, which is inherited, comes the affection of parents, and especially the mother's respect for the father.

CONGRATULATIONS to Secretary of War Davis on an interesting military experiment.

From an army airplane one parachute carried down the crew of a machine gun. Another parachute, launched a few seconds later, brought down a gun and ammunition. The gun crew located the gun and within three minutes were operating it.

THAT may not be important in real war. Any airplane could drop explosives and poison gas that would hurt an enemy on the ground more than 1,000 machine guns. But every airplane experiment is important.

PLAN TO PUT PGH. ON AIR MAP

"Put Pittsburgh on the aviation map."

That is the purpose of an organization now being formed by a group of prominent Pittsburgh business men. It is expected that the organization will be completed next week.

Norman Allderdice, one of the men interested in the project, said last night that something really concrete and tangible is in the making and that a start will be made with between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 in the campaign to aid and encourage aviation interests already established in Pittsburgh and to encourage other aviation interests to locate here.

Those co-operating in the movement are understood to include W. L. Monro, George S. Davison, A. E. Braun, A. L. Humphrey, W. G. Costin and George R. Hann.

4.—An unidentified ax murderer killed a family of three in Santa Rosa, Cal.

Lake Forest, Ill., authorities, meanwhile, are confronted with a baffling mystery in the "furnace death" of Miss Elfrieda Knaak, college graduate and student of psychology, and at Atlanta preparations are under way for the trial of two former Oglethorpe University students, accused of two hold-up murders "for a thrill."

The slaying of Alice Josst has left the police without a single positive clue. The girl's body was found by her mother, Mrs. Lucie Josst, a widow, upon her return from her work in Manhattan last niht. The mother rushed screaming from the house.

"When I left home yesterday morning Alice expected to take a music lesson nearby our home, practice on the piano for a time and then pay a visit to our friends, the Browns," the mother said.

Neighbors reported they had heard the piano playing but had not seen Alice leave her home. They had seen no one entering or leaving the house.

HAD MANY FRIENDS

Alice, however, had many friends, including high school boys. She bore a most excellent reputation.

The police said they had the names of several school boys who were thought to be friendly with Alice and questioned them at their homes. It was possible, the police hinted, that one of them might be locked up as a suspect in the murder.

Alice's absence from school yesterday remained unexplained. She remained away Thursday, after having received her mother's consent. When the body was found none of her jewelry, which, however, was not valuable, had been touched. Detectives were unable this morning to find any high school boy who showed her unusual attention, but they were continuing their investigation.

GRAVITY DEFIED

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company research laboratories laugh at gravity as part of their day's work—in fact, they tease it. British scientists "discovered" a "new force," overcoming gravity. Then Chicago scientists and University of Southern California overcame gravity with magnetism. Here, Miss Ruth Smith, Westinghouse laboratories, watches the upper steel bar which scientists are "floating in the air." Nothing at all touches the upper magnet and the background which you see is only to make the magnet more visible.

"WOBBLY BAR"

This apparatus was constructed at University of Southern California to demonstrate the theory. Westinghouse laboratories used equipment, simple equipment, right at hand. At the university, the lower of the two magnets used was buried in the wooden base shown, whereas Westinghouse men demonstrate more obviously by exhibiting both magnets. Like repulses, physicists know, and that's the only secret in teasing gravity. The magnets vigorously repel each other. In the model above, guide posts are used to prevent the upper magnet from falling laterally.

EXPLAINS MAGNETS

Here, Howard Scott, at Westinghouse laboratories, demonstrates this powerful magnet, similar in strength to that used in the gravitation experiment. It lifts a steel bar, many, many times its own weight, in this picture. Westinghouse has struck upon cobalt steel for its magnet. Cobalt steel is a metal that resists more than any other the tendency towards demagnetization and allows concentration of great magnetic force in comparatively little volume.

Smith Fires Last Big Gun in Campaign Speech Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith's campaign for the presidency will reach its climax tonight at a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden, the last of three successive mass demonstrations planned in New York to wind up the national campaign.

As many of New York's millions as can jam their way into the great hall will hear the Democratic nominee fire his last big gun for the prize which will be awarded by the nation's voters next Tuesday.

The "Happy Warrior" was elated by the tremendous welcome accorded him yesterday in the parade up Broadway and Fifth avenue and last night at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, where he spoke mainly on state issues.

"It was wonderful" and "it was a wow" were some of the Governor's comments on the spontaneous welcome of the greater city's millions.

In his speech last night the Democratic nominee declared that his record as governor had been an economical one. He denied charges of extravagance in office.

Gov. Smith gave his only Brooklyn speech of this campaign to a record crowd at the Academy of Music. About 4,000 persons saw and heard him, every inch of the hall being crowded; and about 25,000 more were in the streets outside listening by means of amplifiers.

The Governor crossed the Manhattan bridge by automobile, and the line of march was copiously bedecked with flags and crowded with enthusiastic Smith supporters who cheered themselves hoarse as the candidate passed. He was given a tremendous reception, too, at the Academy.

For 15 minutes there was continuous cheering, stamping, clapping, shrieking and whistling. The Governor, laughing, threw kisses to Mrs. Smith, who was in a box.

By the time the governor left the hall, nearly 40,000 persons were gathered about the Academy.

A man leading a donkey walked sedately through the crowd. There was a brown derby on the donkey's head, and a sign on each side reading:

"This will bring Al Smith good luck."

The Governor did not get back to his headquarters in New York until after midnight.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over Eastern Missouri yesterday morning is now centered over the lower Lake region, moving rather rapidly toward the St. Lawrence Valley. It is producing cloudy weather over the entire eastern half of the country, and rain in the Middle Atlantic states and the Lake region. The rainfall during the last 24 hours was light generally, but moderately heavy in some localities in Ohio and Indiana.

The western high is drifting down over the Plains states into the South. It is centered over Western Nebraska and Kansas this morning and covers the entire Plains states and the Rocky Mountain section. It carried cold weather far into the South, but not very far East. The temperatures east of the Mississippi River are above 40 degrees. There is no snow reported this morning, and no snow is expected over this section at this time.

River Conditions.

Rain occurred over the river basins, but not enough to affect the rivers. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.5 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.5, and Dam No. 6, 7.5. The dams are up.

More New York Night Clubs Raided

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Prohibition agents, augmented by men from Washington, raided two of the city's less pretentious night clubs early today, seizing a quantity of liquid and arresting 13 employes.

Entertainments were halted by the agents who ordered patrons to leave. One club was located in the rear of a cigar store in West Forthy-seventh street, and the other in West Twenty-first street.

BEER RING, LABOR WAR BOMBS ROCK CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—An outbreak of bombing which erupted in four parts of the city had sent police on the trail of beer runners, outlaw labor antagonists and political terrorists today.

One bomb exploded in the doorway of Walter Staley's restaurant on Madison street, near the loop and 100 yards from the Central Police Station. Guests in the Weston Hotel, next door, were routed. Patrons of the restaurant were constantly using the doorway where the bomb was planted, but none was injured. "The beer war" was the police explanation for that explosion.

On the North Side a bomb wrecked the front of a poultry shop. Mrs. Mani Berkovitz, the proprietor, said she had been warned because she had reduced prices and had failed to employ union chicken killers.

The soft drink parlor of John Wojik on Fullerton avenue was the third bomb's target. Stanley Mendala was cut by flying glass. Windows for a block were shattered.

A dynamite bomb was tossed from a passing car in front of the Twenty-sixth Ward Republican headquarters on South Ashland avenue early today for the fourth attack of the night.

ANTI-GRAVITY "STUNT" IS DONE HERE

The new force announced by English scientists by which the power of gravity is overcome is believed to be nothing else than magnetism.

Bars of magnetized steel are suspended in midair through the repulsive force of other magnets as part of the day's work in experiments in magnetism in the research department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company at East Pittsburgh.

In the search for permanent magnets, which would resist the tendency towards demagnetization, and would be powerful enough to permit great magnetic force to be concentrated in small bulk, the Westinghouse researchers, led by S. M. Kintner, manager of the department, have hit upon cobalt magnet steel as best suited for their purposes.

HARD SUBSTANCE

This steel is almost as hard as tool steel and will retain its magnetic power for a long time. It is being used in radio loud speakers and in the osiso, a highly technical instrument which is used to measure fluctuations occurring over as brief a period as one-fifty millionth of a second in electric currents.

Cobalt steel magnets obviate the necessity of using batteries and electric currents for magnetic purposes in certain instruments and devices where they formerly were required.

One of the photographs shows a cobalt steel magnet holding in midair a bar of steel weighing 13 times as much as the magnet.

In suspending a bar of steel in midair through the repulsive power of magnetism it is necessary to hold the suspended object in the magnetic field by a sheet of glass, guide wires, or something else to keep it from slipping in a lateral direction. But in the pictures nothing is supporting the suspended object and it is kept from falling only by the repulsive force of the magnet underneath.

A magnetized bar of cobalt steel can be made to retreat across a table by moving a magnet of opposing polarity towards it.

It is a curious sight, and one calculated to make the unsophisticated person doubt the evidence of his senses, to see a bar of metal, untouched by any visible agency, cut up capers under the repulsive influence of one of these powerful magnets.

COAL-IRON POLICEMAN IS HELD FOR ASSAULT

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 3.—Charged with abu e conduct when he went into the sleeping room of Mrs. May Hannah, boarding house proprietress, at Hill Station, to arrest her for a minor offense, Corporal J. M. Walsh, of the Coal and Iron Police of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was held for court on an assault charge at a hearing before Justice of the Peace B. M. Kelso, of Canonsburg. He furnished bail.

Political Bolter Shoots Himelf When Baited

DANVILLE, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—His mind apparently affected by baiting of friends because of the dilemma into which he confessed the unusual issues of the presidential campaign had put him, I. Clarence Yeager, 62, of South Danville, is in a critical condition at the Geisinger Hospital following a suicide attempt. He is suffering from a bullet wound in the right temple and is not expected to recover.

According to Rufus Bird, a neighbor, Yeager admitted that he did not want to vote for the candidate of the party of which he was a lifelong member. His friends chided him about his predicament, Bird said, and this added to Yeager's dilemma and resulted in his mind becoming affected.

244 INDICTED, QUIZ AIMS AT 'BIG FELLOWS'

With the work of indicting the little fellows finished, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner will start building up his case against the "big fellows" Wednesday when the November grand jury begins work.

By special arrangement the October grand jury will remain and sit with the November panel to hear testimony of graft and vice which is said to exist with the knowledge of the police and city officials.

Any further indictments that are to be returned must be recommended by the November grand jury. For this reason it was arranged to have the two bodies sit at the same time, the October grand jury cleaning up the routine work.

Today and Monday the district attorney expects to have his staff busy accepting bond from many of the 244 persons indicted yesterday. Tuesday being election day there will be little activity in the probe and on Wednesday the district attorney will begin anew on the second installment of his graft investigation.

VERONA MAKES UP WITH MAYOR

Here's some great news for Herbert Hoover and other Republican party leaders.

Alderman John J. Verona, the talking political boss of the Third Ward, is going to support the Grand Old Party and its presidential candidate at the polls Tuesday. Verona said so himself yesterday. In fact, he deemed his stand so important that he issued a special statement. This was it:

"I am a Republican, and I am for Hoover and the whole Republican ticket, and have been urging my friends to support it."

Verona hit big-time publicity a while back when he got "mad" at his political playmate, the Mayor, and raised a cry of city vice that echoed into a grand jury probe. Subsequently he lost his police magistrate job.

Now there's talk that John and the Mayor have made it up and there are rumors that Verona may get his old magistrate job back again.

Verona's peace move came yesterday after he had told a reporter that it looked like his ward was "going Smith."

Connellsville Rail Link Opposition Hit by Taplin

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The opposition of the Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate Railroads to the construction by the Pittsburgh and West Virginia of a 38-mile extension between Cochran's Mill and Connellsville, Pa., was characterized today by F. E. Taplin, president of the road, as "founded entirely upon a determination to preserve the present monopoly of traffic."

Answering the petitions of these roads to reopen the case for reargument before the entire Interstate Commerce Commission, Taplin, in a brief, said that no railroad consolidation was involved, but that it was a life-saving matter. He maintained the order of the commission authorizing the construction was valid and binding, "having been entered upon a majority vote of a quorum of the commission."

$80,000 SPENT

Taplin informed the commission that construction of the extension had been commenced, in compliance with the commission's authorization, and that already nearly $80,000 had been expended. In addition to this, he said, obligations had been made which would bring this sum to $189,317, these obligations consisting of contracts for the removal of earth from the right-of-way, diversion of streams and the construction of concrete foundations.

The three petitioning railroads, Taplin said, had reiterated the suggestion that arrangements should be effected with existing lines in order to avoid the cost of new construction, estimated at $[illegible].

"While they are willing, at the present time, to suggest the use of their lines in order to eliminate the possibility of the construction of this competitive line, what assurance is there that they will be equally anxious to make satisfactory arrangements with the Pittsburgh & West Virginia, once this application is denied and all dangerous competition is removed," Taplin asked.

TRANSFER FREIGHT

"Is the probability of such arrangements to be seriously considered by the applicant in the face of the fact that already the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, controlled by the New York Central, has transferred fast freight, secured by the applicant from its fast and symboled trains to its locals, thereby causing a day's delay, and consequently loss of business secured through ability to deliver freight in the West a day earlier than is possible with single trunk line service?

"Why the Nickel Plate has objected to this construction is still a mystery, for added to what traffic is now turned over to that road as part of a through route to St. Louis, would be the additional traffic from Donora, Monessen and Allenport, which now moves via the Pennsylvania or the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. Clearly the Nickel Plate could only be benefited as a result of this construction."

AMERICAN PARTY FAILS TO GET PERMITS

"Although watchers' permits have been issued to the Democratic and Republican parties, representatives of the American Party have been unable to obtain their certificates," Attorney A. M. Imbrie, of the Election Frauds Committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association said yesterday in an unofficial statement. The American Party was organized in Pennsylvania to put watchers at the polls to see that the election is conducted honestly, Imbrie said.

Imbrie said he believed the more watchers the better and that he understood the representatives of the American party were all volunteers and their sole interest was to see the election conducted properly. Attorney Imbrie said he hoped the county commissioners would straighten out the watchers' certificates tangle and every rightful watcher would be given his certificate.

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern yesterday repeated his statement that to issue blank watchers' certificates was a violation of the election laws. For this reason he ordered his name left off all certificates issued in blank form. Twenty-five thousand permits are now being printed and they will be issued blank, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong said. He denied that this practice was unlawful.

Few Extra Wives Seem to Be His Weakness

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 3.—(Inc.)—William Jones, 62-year-old Negro, who claims he is the possessor of 56 wives, was arrested by Peoria authorities as his fifty-seventh wife was waiting at the church. Laura Skinner was to be Jones' victim, but banking authorities had Jones arrested for passing a bogus $11,000 check for collection.

Only three times have authorities been able to convict Jones on a bigamy charge, he said. He served three terms. When questioned as to the reason for so many betrothals Jones told newspapermen: "That's just my weakness."

MRS. M'CORMICK FIGHTS $80,000 CUSTOM TAX ON RUG

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—An elaborate Persian rug, said to be six centuries old, has been purchased by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, it was learned today.

The rug, according to its history, has caressed the feet of shahs, czars and emperors. Experts in Persia worked on the fabric for years and, when they completed it, presented it to their shah.

Years later it was a present to Peter the Great of Russia, in whose winter palace in St. Petersburg, it was displayed as a rare treasure. Later when Russia needed the aid of Austria in secret intrigues the rug was presented to the emperor and found repose in the Hofburg palace in Vienna.

Then came revolution and royalty was driven out. The famous rug disappeared. It reappeared recently in the London antique marts. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and another, unknown to her, entered a spirited bidding contest for the treasure. Mrs. Rockefeller got it for $120,000. Later she learned the other bidder was John D. Rockefeller, Jr., her brother.

When Mrs. McCormick attempted to bring the rug to this country the United States custom officials demanded $80,000 duty. She declined to pay it. The rule has been that any art work more than 100 years old may be brought into the country duty free.

Mrs. McCormick plans to carry the matter to the higher courts.

A politician and five policemen, all charged with bribery, extortion and conspiracy in connection with taking money from bootleggers for police protection, were sentenced here yesterday.

Matthew Patterson, state legislator and Republican ward leader, was given five years in the county prison and fined $7,500, after Judge James Gay Gordon, Jr., had denied him a new trial.

Charles W. Schoenleber, police captain, was sentenced to four years and fined $10,000.

William C. Knoell, police captain, three years and fined $10,000.

Herbert Layre, a special policeman, three years and fined $3,000.

John Sells, another special, 18 months and fined $2,500.

Albert Long, a special, six months and fined $...0.

Sells was connected with the police station commanded by Charles Cohen, suspended police captain, and was indicted with him. He testified against Cohen at Cohen's trial, after h had pleaded guilty himself. Cohen was acquitted.

Schoenleber and Patterson were indicted together and convicted. After sentences were imposed, John R. K. Scott, Patterson's lawyer, announced to Judge Gordon that he would take an appeal for a new trial to the Superior Court. He asked Judge Gordon to fix bail for Patterson, pending this appeal, 'd was refused. Scott then sought out Superior Court Judge William B. Linn, who allowed an appeal and agreed to hear argument today for a writ of supersedeas to stay sentence.

JUDGES ON JOB TO NIP FRAUDS ELECTION NIGHT

A request that two judges be kept on duty in the court house all of election day in order that legal redress and protection against infractions of the election laws may be promptly obtained was made yesterday by the Committee on Elections of the Allegheny County Bar Association. The request was made to Presiding Judge John A. Evans.

The committee also asked that one of the judges so assigned for duty on that day be available during the night after the polls are closed, as a great many of the frauds in the past have been perpetrated at that particular time during the count of the vote and the delivery of the ballot boxes back to the county commissioners' office.

Judge Evans assured the committee that the court's aid in safeguarding the purity of the election would be available at all times and to that end two judges would be designated for election work duty.

Successful Marriage Is with One Who Means World to You, Fay King

THERE MUST BE REAL UNDERSTANDING AND SYMPATHY
A GOOD DRESSER AND A GOOD DANCER DON'T MEAN MUCH!
BE SURE YOU ARE IN LOVE WITH THE MAN HIMSELF AND NOT JUST MARRYING HIM TO KEEP SOME OTHER GIRL FROM GETTING HIM.!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

GETTING married is one thing. Staying married is another.

Most everybody can get married if they want to.

Some single friends arouse much sympathy in the minds of their married friends, but have no regrets themselves.

The trouble with many marriages that do not last is that they were made in haste—not heaven.

Girls marry men just because they think they must marry someone. Or they marry just to show some other girl that they can beat her time.

Or they think they are in love because he is such a fine dancer and such a snappy dresser.

To be a real success, marriage must be made with that one who means all the world to you.

ALCOHOLISM BLAMED IN OAKLANDER'S DEATH

An autopsy performed on the body of Harry J. Cupp, 59, of 4615 Forbes street, at the county morgue this morning revealed acute alcoholism as the cause of death. Patrolman Charles Hayes found the victim lying in the doorway at 2219 Forbes street and removed him to Mercy Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Police at first were inclined to think that the man was a victim of foul play, as his vest was stained with blood and his body bore many bruises.

MALONE BRANDS G. O. P. PROSPERITY CLAIM MYTH

Republican prosperity is a myth, Dudley Field Malone of New York told an audience at a Democratic meeting last night in the Penn-McKee Hotel, McKeesport.

"There were 2,944 bank failures in the last six years as against 746 bank failures in the entire eight years of the Wilson administration," he said. "The present government, by its proper protection of industry but by compelling the farmer to buy in a protected market and sell in an unprotected market, has added $1,000,000,000 to the cost of things the farmer must purchase. Is that posperity?"

The Republican administration has failed to enforce the Eighteenth amendment, Malone charged, attacking the prohibition law as one that has linked "the evangelical ministry, the wine growers, the Anti-Saloon League, the bootleggers, the criminal classes and the thousands of prohibition agents in one sacred army to make the American people moral and dry."

The issue of prohibition, he said, is a smoke screen for the effort to defeat Gov. Smith because of his religion. He attacked Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt for "bigotry and intemperate utterances," and said "the progressive clothes" Senator Borah is wearing in this campaign "make a very bad fit for his reactionary body."

The old Tammany is gone, he said, and there is a new order headed by such men as Gov. Smith and Mayor Walker, of New York. Even the new Tammany, Malone added, never has dictated to Gov. Smith. W. D. Falkenstein, a war veteran, was another speaker.

PROBE ASKED IN $12,000 FIRE

Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr today will be asked to investigate the mysterious fire that early this morning destroyed a large frame house on the Washington road near Bridgeville. Firemen from Canonsburg and Bridgeville fought the fire for more than three hours before it was extinguished. Damage was estimated at $12,000.

According to Fire Chief Joseph Flood, of Bridgeville, the house was vacated yesterday by the former residents and another family was expected to move in today. The blaze originated under one of the eaves of the roof and spread rapidly. The place formerly was a road house, Chief Flood said.

CARNAHAN APPOINTS M'KEESPORT VIEWERS

Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, of Common Pleas Court, has named C. W. Reamer, R. M. Kopp and C. M. Shoaf viewers to asses benefits and damages for the improvement of Emery street, West Sixth avenue and Fifth avenue, McKeesport.

Typist Wins Suit For Lawyer's Insurance

The battle of two women to gain possession of $7,000 insurance money left by Attorney Henry Lineweaver ended in Common Pleas Court today.

Judge Harry H. Rowand ruled, in effect, that the money belonged to the attorney's stenographer, Alice M. Godfrey, of Cathedral Mansions, as the policies specified, rather than to Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, of New York City. In dismissing Mrs. Lawrence's action, the court failed to uphold her contention that Lineweaver, a prominent member of the Allegheny county bar who died in 1923, had intended the insurance money for her son.

N. Y. MINISTER IN PULPIT HERE TOMORROW

The pulpit of Smithfield German Evangelical Church will be occupied tomorrow by the Rev. Dr. Earnest M. Halliday, of New York City, general secretary, National Congregational Church Extension Boards.

The extension work of which Dr. Halliday has been the chief executive officer of the denomination since 1924 is assisting 1,700 churches throughout the country in the support of their pastors and the maintenance of regular services. The national extension work was begun a century ago, with the organization of the Congregational Home Missionary Society.

Later the Congregational Church Building and the Congregational Sunday School Extension Societies were organized. The activities of the three societies are now merged in the church extension work.

"How Shall We Vote" is the sermon subject of the Rev. George W. Shelton, pastor, Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. Special music will be presented at this service by the double and male quartet choirs, with James F. Croft as soloist.

The Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, preaches tomorrow morning in the church on "The Joy of Salvation." His evening subject is "A Tomb Without a Tenant, A Murdered Ambition."

A German service and Reformation festival will be held tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock at Second St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Pride street. Prior to this service a Sunday School and Adult Bible cla will be held. There will be no evening service in the church tomorrow evening, owing to the combined Reformation celebration in the Davis theater.

Mrs. Elizabeth Zabriskie speaks tomorrow afternoon at the New Covenant Mission on "Selection and Rejection." She also speaks at the evening service at 7:30 o'clock on "Holy Land."

ARMSTRONG SENDS FLAGS TO BE DISPLAYED AT POLLS

An American flag will accompany each package of election paraphernalia sent out by County Commissioners to election boards for the election next Tuesday. Officials of the board will be requested to display the flag in front of the polling places.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board, believes with the displaying of American flags at polling places, a new thought will be instilled in the minds of the voters when they visit the polling places to cast their ballot.

"On account of the many questions that have been brought into this campaign which makes it appear that the Declaration of Independence is not being respected to the extent that it should, I feel that it would be a patriotic act to display our flag," Commissioner Armstrong said.

Armstrong thinks the flag would serve also to locate the polling place.

GOOD NEWS FOR ZAIN WINNERS TOMORROW

Hundreds of persons are going to be surprised and delighted tomorrow by the announcement in The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that they have been awarded the prizes for the fifth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test.

If you are not in the number, try to be among the prize-winners for the sixth period, now under way. There is a first prize for the period of $100 in cash, and you may also win a grand prize of $1,000 in cash for the best advertisement submitted during the entire course of the test.

You do not have to be an experienced ad writer to have a chance to win these prizes. Professional ad writers and newspaper employes are barred. You are not expected to know anything about the technical side of ad writing. All that is requested is that you write something that will help to sell the products or service of 39 local business concerns that are co-operating in the test. You will find a list of them, together with the rules, elsewhere on this page.

Your ad may be just a plain statement of fact in a few words. Or it may be a slogan or a jingle.

INVESTIGATE

You should visit the stores of the 39 firms participating in the project and ask questions about them to get material for your ads. You must write at least one ad about each of the 39 to be eligible for the $1,000 prize.

In writing your ad about C. A. Michel & Co., 640 Smithfield street, dealers in paints, oils and varnishes, you might call attention to the brand of paint known as Barreled Sunlight, handled by this firm. Barreled Sunlight, which may be had either for outside or interior painting, remains white and new-looking long after ordinary paints have lost their beauty and freshness.

Here is a thought about Harmony Milk that can be worked effectively into your ad about that product. It is "not the cheapest but the best." The milk produced by nature is maintained in its quality and purity. It is never touched by human hands. Careful supervision of the handling of the milk in the country assures a perfect product. The new Harmony Milk plant at Brookville, Pa., modern in every way, may be taken as a sample of the company's methods.

In advertisinig the Terheyden Co., jewelers, at 530 Smithfield street, you would do well not to give detailed descriptions of specific pieces of merchandise, but rather to acquaint the public with Terheyden's reputation for fair, square dealing, with their many years of experience, their dependability and integrity, and their conscientious pricing of their wares to give patrons the greatest possible value for their money at all times.

How is this as an idea for your ad about the Duquesne Light Company? Lighting is a vital problem in the home because its effect on the family eyesight is far-reaching. Nowadays the indirect system of lighting is favored rather than the cold hard glare of former days. Numerous lamps and side lights, so prevalent in the modern scheme of decoration, not only make for eye-comfort, but add to the attractiveness of the home as well.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Winners of the prizes to be awarded for the best advertisements submitted during the fifth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test have been chosen by a committee of well-known advertising experts: Robert M. Thompson, of Robert M. Thompson Agency; Robert E. Grove, of Ketchum, MacLeod & Grove, Inc., and C. E. Hilborn, of the W. S. Hill Company. The prize-winners will be announced in the Pittsburgh Sunday Sun-Telegraph tomorrow. The sixth period of the test, in which hundreds of additional prizes are to be awarded, is now under way.

BUGS BAER Says

(Copyright, 1928.)

CLAIMS by the two campaign committees are now more than national.

They're international.

That ain't all. If the sun comes within 15,000,000 miles of a national committeeman it is liable to be defeated with all on board.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The Republicans claim America, Canada, Pittsburgh, suburban property and all but three of the Thousand Islands.

The Democrats claim Asia, Europe, Madagascar, the Four Horsemen, and 50 per cent of the Smith Brothers.

The Republicans concede nothing but the deserted village.

The Democrats refuse to admit anything until they hear from the man who sent a wireless to the planet of Mars. A vote's a vote.

The Boy Scout strength in the muddled West is more than neutralized by the stalwart support of the Campfire Girls in the East.

The Progressives cannot have much of a party this election.

They ain't claiming anything but victory.

The Mexican vote was a very big problem until the committees decided to leave it in Mexico.

Everybody's voting this election.

Even the women seem to think their votes are going to be counted.

As a matter of fact, that new voting machine doesn't count votes. It chops them up.

You're supposed to drop your vote in the machine and then pull a handle. The minute you pull that handle, out pops a piece of chewing gum, a hammer drops down and spanks you on the head and a brush shines your shoes.

We are doing everything by machinery nowadays. But this is the first presidential election that is liable to be held up for hours until the plumber gets there with his repair kit.

TALKIES GIVE CONRAD NAGEL GREATEST FILM CHANCE IN HIS CAREER

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by Newspaper Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.

IT was a happy day for Conrad Nagel when talking pictures came to say. Conrad was among the first to appear in audible pictures, his Vitaphone voice bursting into the silence of Warner Brothers' pioneer photoplay, "Glorious Betsy." Conrad has been in great demand ever since, and finds himself again on the very crest of the popularity wave through the modern miracle of the talkies.

Just as soon as he completes his role opposite Norma Shearer in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," he will be Mary Duncan's hero in "Through Different Eyes," an all Movietone-Fox production. These engagements eliminate him as leading man for Marion Davies in "The Five O'Clock Girl," and make Charles King a strong contender for the honor.

Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks apparently have made final arrangements regarding the production of "Coquette" as Mary's next starring vehicle. Some way has been found to adapt this difficult stage story for the screen, and, although the tale may not be quite the same, there is plenty of drama for Mary's "grown-up" role. On the Metro lot, where Johnny Mack Brown is under contract, I hear that Johnny is as good as cast as Mary's leading man. United Artists won't say "aye" or "nay" to this. But Johnny seems to meet all requirements for the role as well, perhaps better, than the other leading men in Hollywood.

Mexican Artist Is New "Nanook"

THE Mexican girl discovered by Robert Flaherty, Jerry Rudolph and party in their explorations below the border in search of a star for an Indian epic, has been introduced to Hollywood as Senorita Delia Magana. For several of her score of years she has been in musical comedy in Mexico City, and is considered ideal as a picture type. Delia is to have the name role in the Fox film "Nanook of the Desert," which tentative title at least serves the purpose of reminding fans that Director Flaherty produced that gem of the Arctic, "Nanook of the North."

Greta Garbo holds firm to her plans for a vacation in Europe before the close of the year. And Greta, at least thus far, has always had her way. She is determined to return to Sweden, and to remain there during the Christmas season. Then she is arranging to meet her close friend, Lilyan Tashman, in Paris for some shopping. After which the two will return to home and Hollywood. Greta has never visited Gay Paree, so both Greta and the French capital are due for a thrill.

Writer of Films Former Pianist

DIRECTOR CLARENCE BROWN'S next photoplay will be titled "Wonders of Women." Bess Meredyth, Metro's crack scenarist, has the story almost completed, and attention is being given to selecting the cast. Miss Meredyth, by the way, has gained success in three separate careers. She began as a concert pianist, became an actress, and is now a writer. Hollywood rumor has it that she is about to tackle a fourth career as Mrs. Michael Curtiz, wife of the director who recently completed the Warner Brothers' epic, "Noah's Ark."

Although Ramon Novarro is to make his debut as a singer in the Berlin opera, picture patrons will have an opportunity to hear his voice long before his operatic debut is made. It has leaked out that Ramon will be heard singing several songs in Metro's photoplay, directed by W. S. Van Dyke, "The Pagan," for which he is now en route to the South Seas.

Monte Blue and May McAvoy came shivering back to the palm trees of Hollywood from a high mountain location where scenes for "No Defense" were filmed. The company has been gone for three weeks. Besides Monte and May, Lee Moran, Wiliam Desmond and Kathryn Carver are all happy to be back again. They prefer orange blossoms (the kind that grow on trees) to mountain snows.

Anna May Wong Has Successor

LASCA WINTER, who has usurped Anna May Wong's place since Anna May has been starring in Europe, has been selected for the difficult role of satan's mistress in "Seven Footprints to Satin," the First National film to be directed by Benjamin Christianson. Lasca is the widow of Jim Donahue, one of Hollywood's most brilliant writers who died tragically. She has just completed a part in "The Rescue," Ronald Colman's latest picture.

Wallace Beery is prouder today than if he had just completed a sensationally successful role in a sensationally successful photoplay. For some time Beery has been one of Hollywood's most enthusiastic fliers, using his own special plane as other folks utilize motor cars. He has just qualified for the license given by the government to aviation pilots, which is the highest confidence that Uncle Sam reposes in his air men. Beery is now permitted to carry passengers.

"A Woman of Affairs," the story based on the Michael Arlen play, starring Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, was previewed at one of the local theaters and proved an absolute sensation. Metro officials believe that it will be heralded at the box office with greater acclaim than was accorded "Flesh and the Devil."

FILM FAVORITES :-: SNAPPED BY CAMERA :-: FOR NO SCREEN

Dorothy Mackaill takes lesson in handling foil from ship's fencing master en route to Hawaii for the filming of "Stranded in Paradise," in which she appears with Milton Sills.

Raquel Torres and Fay Webb are proud of their skill at roller skating, which has become a general craze among stars who do their acting in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Ramon Novarro in an airplane used in his new picture. The implement held by George Hill, the director, is for the purpose of recording the sounds made by the airplane in flight.

PLAY'S DEBUT TUESDAY LISTED

Opening the new week in the Penn, Dolores Del Rio will be seen on the screen in "Revenge." The stage presentation is entitled "Blue Grass."

"The Wedding March," Eric Von Stroheim's newest picture, is coming to the Stanley next week. Stroheim is starred and Fay Wray and Zasu Pitts are in the cast.

"Sunrise" is the photoplay to be shown as the Aldine's screen feature next week. It has Janet Gaynor and George O'Brien in the leading roles.

Richard Barthelmess, in a film version of "Out of the Ruins," by Sir Philip Gibbs, will be seen in the Grand next week. Marian Nixon is the leading woman.

The Coyne sisters, who are in the cast of "Social Maids," next week's burlesque in the Academy, will do a dancing specialty as one of the features of the show.

Clara Kimball Young, celebrated screen star, will appear in person Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, of next week at the Sheridan Square. The screen feature will be Victor McLaglen in "The River Pirate."

Estelle Taylor wil be featured in "Singapore Mutiny," the screen production in the Harris the first three days of next week. The vaudeville will be headed by Harry Holmes, known as the "pessimist."

Because of interest in the presidential election, the Davis, Harris and Sheridan Square theaters will give midnight shows on election night, Tuesday Nov. 6, at which election returns will be read.

50 HIT TRAIL AT GLORY BARN

Fifty persons "hit the trail" last night at services in Glory Barn, Carson street. Of this number a dozen were annointed by Evangelist John W. Sproul after they had asked for relief from physical ills. Mr. Sproul preached a sermon on "Is the Day of Miracles Past?"

Baptismal services will be conducted in the tabernacle tonight and two services will be held tomorrow, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. Evangelist Sproul promises that next Sunday afternoon he will go on the air and broadcast his sermons through his own station. He was granted a permit Wednesday and is getting his station in readiness.

RUSH HOSPITAL FUND DRIVE

With Friday, November 9, definitely set as the closing date, the 850 workers engaged in the appeal for the Allegheny General Hospital's new $5,000,000 building, are redoubling their efforts to see all prospective givers to the project before the close of the campaign. At the last meeting a total of $270,896.50 was reported, which, added to the amounts announced at the opening meeting and first luncheon, brought the grand total to $3,660,174.50. The amount yet to be raised is $1,340,-825.50.

According to Dr. Maitland Alexander, president of the hospital and general chairman of the appeal, many of the smaller memorials have been given. This is particularly encouraging, he said, as it is an indication that the movement is receiving the support of the general public.

MUSIC

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Syria Mosque

PROGRAM

Apollon Musagete, Ballet ..... Stravinsky
Scene I. Birth of Apollo.
Scene II. Variation of Apollo (Apollo and the Muses); Variation of Polymnia; Variation of Terpsichore; Variation of Apollo; Apollo and Terpsichore; Coda (Apollo and the Muses); Apotheosis.

Nocturnes ..... Debussy
(a) Nuages; (b) Fetes.

Prelude to "The Mastersingers of Nuremburg" ..... Wagner

Symphony No. 3 in E flat major, "Eroica," Op. 55 ..... Beethoven
I. Allegro con brio. II. Marcia funebre: Adagio assai. III. Scherzo: Ollegro vivace; Trio. IV. Finale: Allegro molto.

As customary, the Boston Symphony Orchestra opened our Pittsburgh Orchestra Association's concerts in Syria Mosque, and once again set standards that will be hard to approach. One may well regret the vacant places at these concerts, for nowhere else in the world is one privileged to hear such music.

Interest at first centered about a new Stravinsky work, ballet music for strings alone, and music that always will remind us of the fine quality of Boston's violins, seldom of Stravinsky. If the dancing was only passable, when the ballet was produced in Paris, it is no wonder the audience paid little attention to the orchestra. It is only momentarily interesting, lacks all richness that one hears in the Bach concertos for string orchestra, and makes us suspect that Stravinsky makes more colorful instrumentation than musical designs.

Debussy's "Nocturnes" are old acquaintances here, but never have we heard them more delicately played. Wagner's "Meistersinger" Prelude was a fine climax for the first part of the program; for once all the voices could be heard, for the Boston soloists, the French horns and English horns, the rest of the woodwinds, are virtuosos. But Koussevitsky played them a bit too strongly last evening and lost the main line of the prelude. It was too analytical; it moved heavily.

Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony, however, showed Koussevitsky at his very best. There were no heroics in imitation of Italian or Dutch conductors; there was merely straightforward classic reading of a magnificent score, and played by America's most representative orchestra.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

'BUNDLE DRIVE' NEXT WEEK

The annual "Bundle Week" drive of the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor will be staged in Pittsburgh and Allegheny county next week.

Workers are seeking to shatter the record last year when more than 100,000 bundles were collected.

School children particularly benefit by the association's charity, thousands being enabled to attend school each year through the home service department which furnishes clothing.

In the summer the association maintains a fresh air home near Oakmont where mothers and children are taken for a vacation.

Harry W. Shepard, secretary and general manager, is in charge of the drive which opens Monday and continues all week.

GIRL ANNOYERS FACE HEARING

Accused of tormenting a 16-year-old girl by compelling her to walk in the middle of the street, three Sewickley Valley youths have been ordered by Edgeworth police to appear for a hearing tonight before Justice of the Peace Curtis H. Paschold.

Roberta Pfaff, 16, of Glen Willard, was on her way home Tuesday night from the residence of George F. Gundelfinger, Edgeworth, where she is employed, according to police, when she was stopped by three youths who jostled her off the sidewalk. Frightened, she began to cry. Patrolman David Nealy, after questioning her, directed the youths to appear for a hearing.

The three gave their names as Paul Jones and Harry Cleasner, of Haysville, and William Merriman, of Leetsdale.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Samuel A. McClungs Give Dinner Dance For Niece

ALL during those dull days of midsummer, when there was nothing of any social importance going on and no prospect of any within our line of vision, I remember looking forward with some eagerness to the time when parties would come back into favor again. Surf bathing, golf, tennis, riding—all were infinitely more alluring to our society folk then than any formal tea or dinner could be.

It seemed as if our "season" were rather far in the future then, but the time has sped by and certainly no one could complain now of a lack of entertaining. Our debutantes are making their bows, one by one, and their debuts are being supplemented with any number of luncheons and dinners.

The event of importance yesterday, though, after Elizabeth McCullough's coming-out party was over, was the dinner-dance which the Samuel Alfred McClungs, of Murrayhill avenue, gave last night in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. They had as their guests of honor their niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sellers, of Maryland avenue, who were married last June. No doubt you know that Mrs. Sellers was Elizabeth Mellon before her marriage, and she is a daughter of the Thomas Alexander Mellons, of North Negley avenue.

The McClungs entertained about 175 guests, I understand. They were placed at tables seating about 10, decorated with masses of pink and yellow roses together with chrysanthemums in the same colors. Mrs. McClung wore a gown of black georgette velvet embroidered with pearls, while Mrs. Sellers appeared in a Patou bluef rock. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Hyde Clarke, of Cooperstown, N. Y., who are visiting the McClungs. Mrs. Clarke wore a gown of brown tulle.

The interior of the club has just been refinished, you know, and only the simplest decorations of cibotium ferns were used throughout the rooms.

I'VE just heard of an October wedding taking place out in California, which I am sure will interest you. It is that of Laura Louise Banks, daughter of Mrs. Laura S. Banks, formerly of Oakmont and now of San Marino, Cal., and John Carroll Shoe, of Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shoe, of Philadelphia, which took place October 18 in the Little Church of the Flowers in Glendale, Cal. Elizabeth Banks was her sister's maid of honor, and the men of the bridal party were all former Pittsburghers. Robert N. Brainerd, who makes his home in Los Angeles now, was best man and the ushers were David E. Jones and Paul K. Jones, of Hollywood, formerly of Oakmont. A reception in the Banks home followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Shoe motored through Lower California and have now come East to make their home in Pittsburgh.

DORMONT CLUB FETES FEDERATION CHIEF

THE Dormont New Century Club this year introduced an innovation into club circles by doing away with the customary president's day reception and inviting other club presidents to meet Mrs. John A. Frick, of Allentown, head of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. Mrs. Frick, Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. R. W. Johnston, and Mrs. John Easton McKirdy, all of the State Federation; Mrs. Carl E. Coslowsky, of the Congress of Clubs; Mrs. R. B. Perry, leader for the day, and Mrs. F. B. Saunders, New Century president, stood in the receiving line and were seated together on the palm and fern-banked stage of Dormont Masonic Hall for the program. This consisted of a talk by Mrs. Frick, brief greetings from the other guests and music by Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens Cross, accompanied by Mrs. Sylvia Hibbs McBeth, and Mrs. Helen Hunt Allen, accompanied by Mrs. Harold G. Ewens.

Mrs. Frick, on behalf of the Federation's American home department, presented the $10 prize to Miss Nancy Boobyer, who had won the poster contest put on by the department among the schools of the state. The state president, who has just been making a visit to Potter county, where clubs are 35 and 50 miles apart, spoke of the aim of the General Federation's new administration—the use of leisure for community betterment. "Government is only housekeeping on a large scale and for that reason women have a definite contribution to make to government and, also for that reason, it behooves them to be intelligent on the subject," Mrs. Frick remarked.

Prior to the meeting, Mrs. Perry entertained the honor guests at a charmingly appointed luncheon in the Haller tearoom, Mt. Lebanon.

G. O. P. TARIFF POLICY NEEDED, SAYS REED

Gov. Alfred E. Smith, speaking on November 2, 1922, denounced the present Republican tariff act as "a cold blooded hold-up," Senator David A. Reed charged at a Hoover-Curtis meeting held last night in the Allison School, Wilkinsburg.

"Is it not obvious that some barrier must be put up to prevent a vast throng of low-wage immigrants from coming into this country?" he asked. "We have such barriers now, the tariff law and the immigration law. On both tariff and immigration the Democratic party now makes fair promises, but it is only just to judge them by their past performances."

Gov. Smith, said Reed, frequently has denounced the immigration law and every Tammany congressman but one opposed its passage. A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, presided.

The last 68 years of history proves conclusively that the Republican policy of a protective tariff is right and that the Democratic policy of free trade is wrong, Congressman Harry A. Estep told the audience at a Hoover meeting last night in the Carnegie Library, Thirteenth Ward.

Commissioner E. V. Babcock, speaking at a meeting in Etna, at which John D. McIntyre presided, declared he can see no logical reason for a change in the national administration.

"Commercial and industrial prosperity enables more homes to enjoy radios, automobiles, electric washing machines, better educational advantages than they ever have enjoyed in the history of this nation," he said.

Other Republican meetings were held last night in Clairton and Dormont.

GRILL BOYS IN GIRL KILLING

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Staten Island police early today were questioning several "boy friends" of Alice Joost, pretty 15-year-old brunette, who was found murdered last night in her bedroom at Port Richmond.

The boys questioned are members of the sophomore class at the Port Richmond High School, of which the girl was a member.

The girl's mother, who spent the evening away from home, said her daughter had no enemies.

Miss Joost had been struck on the head with a blunt instrument and garroted by a piece of insulated wire cord. Police said she had been attacked.

An autopsy was to be performed later today.

We are a family of five and live on a 360-acre farm, so I have quite a good deal to do both indoors and out. At first I was unable to do anything and had to have a girl, but after taking the Vegetable Compound I finally gained my strength back and also gained considerable in weight."—Mrs. Otto J. Geyer, R. ## EARTHQUAKE SHAKES APPALACHIAN REGION

ATLANTA, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The southern tip of the Appalachian mountain chain was shaken by two light earth shocks at 11 o'clock Eastern time last night, and the Piedmont regions further south felt a single and lighter shock at the same hour. Damage was negligible, but residents were alarmed.

Slight tremors were noted as far west as Frankfort, Ky., the disturbances being recorded at 10:03 and 10:06 o'clock. No damage resulted.

Asheville, N. C., 50 miles south of Mount Mitchell, highest peak in the Appalachians, reported the heaviest shocks. They came in succession at 11 and 11:05 p. m., interrupting telephone communication in isolated instances.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., on the tip of the Blue Ridge, residents fled from one apartment house, when a temblor was felt in the city. Many residents reported that their homes were rocked. Newspaper offices at Bristol, Va.-Tenn., were called frequently by frightened residents when the temblor was felt there. Two distinct shocks were felt at Spartansburg, S. C., as at Asheville, Kingsport, Tenn., and Greenville, Tenn., also reported a slight tremble of the earth.

A score or more calls were received at Atlanta police headquarters reporting the shock in the higher sections of the city.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

BLACK CARACUL'

By MARTIN LEIGH JEFFERSON

THE Michael Mortons were the kind of people who make statistics. That is, they lived in a small apartment in a brownstone house just like every other small apartment in every other brownstone house in the city. They paid a small income tax and went to the movies as regularly as they went to church. Mrs. Michael Morton was a pretty young bride who played bridge in the afternoon and made appointments to play bridge in the morning. She also spent a good deal of time polishing her finger nails and rearranging her lovely auburn hair. What time was left she spent in thinking of her husband, who was not extraordinary in any way. He was just a nice American husband who worked very hard so that his wife might have a smarter dress than the next man's wife, and who was saving for a car.

Which is where the trouble comes in. Because just at the time that Mickey Morton, which is an undignified name for a presumably dignified sales manager, had decided to save for a car his pretty wife spied a black caracul coat. Now it is always dangerous for a pretty wife to spy a fur coat that her husband cannot afford. In this case it was fatal, because the pretty wife tried it on and decided that life would not be complete without this particular black caracul coat.

So when Mickey came home one blustering evening his wife greeted him with more than the customary affection. Not that it was unusual for Mona to throw her arms around Michael's neck and tell him how glad she was to see him each evening. But, as he later said, it wasn't normal for a girl to cling as if she were drowning and he her only hope of rescue. So Mickey unwound the white arms of his pretty wife, held her at arm's length, and asked, "And what can I do for my devoted wife this evening?"

"Devoted wifie" opened a pair of luscious blue eyes very wide and innocently at that. Then she giggled. "You are shrewd, darling—but I don't really want anything," she said. "It's just that I saw the darlingest coat in a little shop down the street that's too cheap to believe, and—"

Mickey grunted. "Yeah, the salesman fell in love with you on sight and decided he would give you the little coat for less than it cost. Or else he was sorry for you because you looked anemic and that little cloth coat of yours, which set me back a hundred and fifty smackers, is SO thin. I see." And he sat back rather content with his little monologue.

But devoted wives who are smitten by black caracul coats are not to be discouraged so easily. And as a consequence Mona presented argument after argument in favor of the fur coat. A cloth coat WASN'T an adequate protection against Winter winds. All her life she had wanted a fur coat. Mrs. Sands, who lived next door, had two. Mrs. Evans had a mink coat. All the girls had fur coats and she was actually ashamed to be seen with them. He wouldn't want his own little wife to look like a ragpicker, would he? When she came to call for him at the office the other men would look up and say, "There goes Morton's wife. Treats her like a dog. Why the poor thing is shivering." And so on.

But Mickey just smiled obstinately at each argument, and repeated monotonously, "We're saving for a car, we've got to have a car. The fur coat can wait until next year." And nothing Mona could say would make him alter the formula—"we're saving for a car, got to have a car."

Even as she cried herself to sleep Mona could hear the words in her ears—and she almost hated him for them. But the next morning even though she and Mickey weren't on speaking terms she felt happier. Because she had an idea . . .

As soon as her husband had left the house, for the first time in months without kissing her goodby, she dressed carefully, but quickly, tidied up the apartment and left. She was back in an hour with a large box on her arm. In the box, mute testimony to dozens of little deaths, lay the black caracul coat. Mona lifted it tenderly, as a mother would a young child, from its cradle of cold tissue paper and slipped into it. As she was standing before the mirror admiring herself very much, I am afraid, the telephone rang. It was Michael, unhappy over their quarrel and all contrition. "Call for me at the office tonight and we'll have dinner out and then go to the theater," he pleaded. "You bet," said Mona gleefully, and hung up.

That evening she met Michael, dressed in the new coat—and with a mischievous light in her eyes. "Like it?" she queried. He frowned and was silent. Then, "How did you get it? Who gave you the money?" Mona understood. So he thought that of her. Her own husband. The tears came to her eyes, but she decided to punish him for his mistrust. All evening, during dinner and the play she refused to enlighten him, and once more they quarreled, only this time bitterly.

At one point in the argument Michael became so incensed that he walked ahead of her. She didn't even turn to look for him but went on crossing the crowded avenue. Suddenly things went black before Michael's eyes. He saw a car dart out from behind a corner, then he saw a black caracul coat go down . . .

Later, when the doctor told him she wasn't seriously hurt, Mickey remembered the sight of the coat being mowed down, like a dark weed. But he didn't mention that to Mona, as she lay there, quiet, in his arms. He only murmured over and over again, "I love you so, I love you so." Mona pressed a trembling mouth to his. Enough to believe that I bought the coat on the installment plan—twenty-five dollars down and five dollars a week? Enough to take back—"

But Michael's throat was making unmanly sounds. He had just enough control left to whisper "I love you enough to buy you another black-c-a-r-acul c-oat."

INNOCENT LESSEE, TIED UP BY PADLOCK, ASKS RELIEF

Alex J. Dash yesterday filed a petition in Federal court asking for a modification of the one-year "padlock" placed October 23 on the first floor and basement of Kleman's Inn, 201 Collins avenue, because of violations of the liquor law in the closed parts of the building.

The day before the "padlock" decree was handed down, he says, he signed a lease with John P. Kleman, owner of the property, giving him possession of the first floor, basement and a banquet room on the second floor, from that day until April 30, 1934, intending to use it for a restaurant.

The consideration, according to the petition, was to be $41,126, the contract calling for a payment of $820 a month and $826 when he gained possession. The contract also called upon him to place a $1,000 bond that the prohibition law would not be violated. A rule was granted on United States Attorney John D. Meyer to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

Joan Constantly Thinks of Bill After He Vanishes From Rollo's Home

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Joan becomes hysterical when Bill visits her and offers to marry her. Mrs. Barstow invites her to spend a week-end at her cottage in the mountains. When she returns, Ruth questions her about her love affair with Bill. Bill disappears after he has an argument with Rollo's dad.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

ROLLO mourned him for a while. Even the old man missed him. They kept his room as he had left it, with all his clothes, his well-tailored, expensive clothes, hanging up in the closet.

In the spring when Mrs. Mallory, the housekeeper, looked them over, she found they were full of moths. She sent them to the Salvation Army.

"Rollo says Will'um cleared out without a word," Ruth told Joan one day. "He started for Bakersfield after a little tiff he had with the old man, and he simply never arrived. Can you beat that? Left all his clothes behind, and everything. I wrote Rollo not to worry, he'd be back. Shouldn't wonder if he'd turn up here again. You know I was in love with that boy for a while—"

"Good riddance to bad rubbish!" Maisie said, when Joan told her.

CHAPTER XXI.

BILL was gone, and nobody knew where he was.

Ruth consoled herself with a young man from the Dutch East Indies, a young man who wore flat derby hats and fawn-colored spats. He spoke with a thick, syruppy accent, and had a wife who kept to the house because of some obscure spinal ailment.

"So there's no chance of her making trouble," Ruth said, "and he helps to pass the time. It's a return I won't marry Rollo until there's a man comes through with the cash."

"Gosh, you would if you 'oved him," Joan said in the serious, good-little-girl voice that always made Ruth laugh.

"Love! What's that? There's no such thing!" She flung the expensive hat she had been trying on back into its box and slammed the cover shut.

"She's thinking about Bill," Joan thought, and a queer, jagged pain shot through her.

[illegible] her from forgetting [illegible] when she wasn't talking about him she was thinking about him, Joan knew she was. Looking out the window with a pensive look in her bright, dark eyes. Looking at Joan, long and speculatively, wondering about her and Bill, wondering how much he had loved her, how much she had loved him . . .

"He failed us both . . . Ruth, too . . . we're in the same boat, she and I . . ."

He was in Joan's thoughts constantly now. It wasn't that she wanted him back. She would have cowered from him had he come. But the memory of that love that had once seemed so clean and beautiful and proud rankled. It had been dragged in the mud. She had adored him, loved him prodigally, without fear, scornful of consequences, impatient of restraint. And he had smiled at her with his beautiful, clear blue eyes that seemed so loyal and true . . . and slipped out of her life like a shaft of sunlight. Bright and warm for a minute, gone so soon . . . nothing left to touch, nothing to call to . . . just gone. . . .

Christmas came. A lonely day in spite of the mound of tissue paper packages Maisie piled on the library table under the imitation Christmas tree with its fat green [illegible] and yellow balls, and [illegible] of Bethlehem on the [illegible] gift came in a big [illegible]ket. Maisie said [illegible] "Pretending to rush [illegible]her to all those social [illegible]nd then treating her [illegible]

She planned the menu first, every bit of it, from the tomato soup with whipped cream to the cafe noir and after-dinner mints, before she invited Curtis by telephone.

"Is this Mr. Barstow? I was just wondering . . . this is Mis' Kimmer, Maisie Kimmer, Joan calls me Maisie, everybody does . . . I was just wondering if some night you wanted to come out to my place for dinner? Oh, that'll be fine . . . no, not tonight, that is I wasn't thinking of tonight . . . could you come next Thursday?"

The dinner was a great success. Maisie knew Curtis had enjoyed it, and when it was over she got up and said, "Now I'll just step over to—"

And before the words were out of her mouth Joan was shaking her head and raising her eyebrows, signalling her not to say it, but she kept right on, anyway. She hadn't given this dinner for nothing. "I'll just step over to Mis' Harvey's, cause you young folks'll want a little time to yourselves—"

When Maisie came home, at half past ten, Curtis had gone. "Why—" what happened—what did he go so soon for?"

Joan looked up from her book with a rather watery smile. "It isn't so early, is it?"

"For a young man in love with a girl it certainly is. You're keeping something from me, Johnnie, an' I don't think it's fair—after I try—"

"I know, Maisie, I know. I'm a miserable, ungrateful thing, only I'm not really—I do love you, Maisie. But you see I—I don't want Curtis to—to love me—"

"What!"

Joan began to laugh, helplessly. "Maisie—if you could see your face! It's so funny—"

"Never mind my face—why don't you want a nice young man to love you? I never heard of anything so plain silly in all my born days."

"I know—but I didn't mean it that way . . . You don't understand . . . I like Curtis, I sort of love him too, only I don't want him to say anything about it now—not yet—and he almost did—"

"He almost did—and he didn't!" Now Maisie was mad!

"Don't put him off too long," she said. "There's a limit to every man's patience. The time may come when you want him an' he's changed his mind."

In the morning Joan was too ill to go to work. Only a bad cold, but Maisie wouldn't hear of her going to the shop.

Curtis telephoned twice, but Joan didn't want to see him. "Please don't let him come, Maisie—wait till tomorrow. I'll feel more like it then."

So Curtis went out to the links to play golf.

Mrs. Curtis Barstow also went out. She went to Sausalito. "It's probably a wild goose chase," she thought as she sat back against the cushions of the big, comfortable car, waiting for the auto ferry to cross the bay. "But it's a chance, and I'll not leave one unturned . . . there must be something queer, she's so mysterious about it . . . besides he really seemed interested in Eugenia the other night. Now if I can just find something . . ."

The worn front steps of the old Van Fleet house sagged under Mrs. Barstow's slight weight. The door bell jangled complainingly. After a long time there came the sound of shuffling steps, the door swung open grudgingly.

An old women with a long yellow face and a checked shawl tied around her head and in a little knot under her chin, stared at her through the crack.

"You can wait in the parlor," she said when she understood it was a caller for the Misses Van Fleet.

How cold it was in the long, high-ceilinged room. How damp and musty!

Tick tock, tick tock, tick tock, the bronze clock on the white marble mantel ticked off the seconds sadly.

Once she stood up to go. It was silly to wait so long in the cold, musty room. And still, to come all the way for nothing. . . .

Finally the door opened, the old woman with the red shawl was back! "Miss Evvie is out," she said, "and Miss Babe is lying down."

"But I've come from San Francisco. Couldn't I—"

"You could come back," the old woman said, "some other time."

She stalked ahead into the hall, opened the big front door. "Goodday, madam!" Lyla Barstow was being dismissed like a book agent. Bang! That was the door closing behind her.

The chill of the old house had struck into her very bones. She sat 20 minutes in front of the blazing fire at the Grays', just the other side of the hill, before she began to thaw out.

"And rude . . . Lottie, are they always so rude?"

THE EYES HAVE IT

IS THERE anything in the world more intriguing than the eyes of a girl? There's only one thing you may be sure about them, and that's their color—and sometimes you can't be too sure of that. But, be that as it may, the eyes have the votes of everyone. They are the barometers, if you will, of the soul within.

Laughing eyes, mischievous eyes, soulful eyes, sorrowful eyes, dreamy eyes—the list is too long to go into further detail. But the funny part of it all is this—just as soon as you think that THE girl has the dreamiest eyes you ever saw, you promptly have to change your mind, because when you look into them they're laughing and dancing and as full of mischief as they can be.

And the next time they're sorrowful and far away until you are so bewildered at the rapid changes that you begin to wonder.

Don't mind and don't get lost in a maze of wonder, for that's the way of eyes. They're always different, suiting the mood of their owner. All you can be sure about them is the steadfast love which constantly shines through every mood. And, after all, that's what counts the most, isn't it.

So now you have the story—the Eyes have it! Here's to them forever and ever, with their message of love and happiness.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Apply Results of Chemical Research

IN a sense, the body is a remarkable laboratory. By apparently mysterious methods the foods we eat, the water we drink and the air we breathe are combined, transformed and utilized by the body.

DR. COPELAND

To the expert chemist these effects are not so mysterious after all. Many of the things accomplished by the body can be duplicated in the test tube of the laboratory worker. All of the processes of nutrition will be explained when men have gone further in their research.

Here is a quotation from a famous author who was writing about foods and how they contain stored energy, energy which is liberated and made useful by the body: "When these substances are broken down through oxidation to simpler chemical bodies, they give to the animal organism the same amount of energy as they would by similar conversion in the test tube. The energy contained in any foodstuff may be determined accurately by measurement of the heat which it yields on combustion in a calorimeter."

In a little simple language, this means that in the laboratory, with an instrument for measuring heat, the "calorimeter," the chemist can measure accurately just what the body does with the food. He can determine how much steam and power, how much heat and energy, a given quantity of a given food gives to the man who eats it.

This is important, but busy men and women who are more interested in what foods to eat than they are in the fundamental and scientific reasons for selecting them. As a doctor, I have observed always that people care little about a scientific lecture on the microscopical changes produced by the disease. What they want to know is, what will cure them.

Food is taken to promote growth, to repair the tissues, to supply heat, to generate energy. There must be foods containing the mineral salts like lime for the bones, iron for the blood and many other minerals for particular purposes. There must be muscle-building foods and foods to make skin and hair and fingernails. There must be water to dissolve and carry away the wastes. Fat is required for lubrication and to keep the tissues soft.

It is unnecessary to go into detail regarding these matters or, as I have said, to discuss the scientific reasons for them. But every sensible person will learn how to balance his meals. He must do this in order that the machinery and functions of his body may be guaranteed.

There are several so-called "deficiency diseases." Perhaps the most common of these is rickets. As one writer puts it: "Rickets is a disease of modern times; it is a part of the price we pay for civilization." It is the penalty of the indoor life and improper eating. The bow-legged, knock-kneed, pot-bellied children are its victims.

Another deficiency disease, scurvy, is in my opinion, much more common than is commonly suspected. Listlessness, indifference, lack of energy, loss of appetite and mental depression, may be due to wrong eating. These symptoms may be due to a form of scurvy. Even though we associate this disease with prisons, sailing vessels and old-time poor houses, it may actually appear in the midst of our modern civilization, coming as a result of eating poorly balanced meals.

We may not know a thing about the technical side of chemistry. But if we are wise, we will apply to our daily lives the results of chemical research.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND

Man's Alibis Ready to Serve

MAN that is born of woman is full of alibis, my daughter!

Yea, for whatsoever he doeth he can give thee an hundred "reasons." Like unto the viands at a quick-lunch counter, they are always hot off the fire and ready-to-serve!

And although his alibis may not be always convincing, they are always interesting! For, verily, every one of them is a WOMAN!

* * *

Behold, hath he fallen from his chivalrous ways? Hath the polish been rubbed from his manners and the tenderness from his love-making? Then is it because of the forwardness of the modern damsel, the boldness of her eye, the shortness of her skirts and the frankness of her make-up, before which he seeth no cause to bow down, nor to remove his hat in homage.

HELEN ROWLAND

Doth he shove past women in the crowd and cling to his seat in the subway without blushing? Then it is because the women who are clinging to straps have worked all day in an office, and are therefore able to stand upon their feet.

* * *

Go to. When he taketh the blonde to luncheon, it is because his wife boreth him and doth not "understand him."

When he returneth from the poker party at dawn, with an unsteady step, it is because his mother-in-law getteth upon his nerves and maketh his home unendurable.

* * *

When his eye wandereth after the strange woman with the burnt orange hair, it is because the woman beside him hath forgotten to powder her nose and ceased to make herself alluring.

* * *

When he kisseth a damsel, it is because the Lord made the moon so beautiful and the damsel maketh herself so tempting.

When he falleth from grace, when he getteth foolishly entangled, when he robbeth a bank or groweth a mustache or giveth a bad check or weareth cream-colored spats; when he committeth arson or murder or betteth on the wrong horse, it is because some woman DROVE him to it, or because some woman enticed him to it!

* * *

For if a man slippeth from the straight and narrow path, it is always because a WOMAN hath tripped him!

Verily, verily, when Adam ate of the forbidden fruit, it was not of his own weakness and desire, but because he was too kind and tender-hearted to refuse a lady! SELAH.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Endures an Agony of Suspense

AT Katie's wail of "Junior" and her burst of sobs, I felt for an instant as if something icy had grasped my heart and stilled its beating. Then as terror had its way with me, I sprang toward her.

"Where?" I cried, with hands outstretched to shake a coherent answer from her. But Mr. Underwood was ahead of me, and in a twinkling had torn away the apon which characteristically she had swept over her face, and with an iron grip of her shoulders had swung her around facing him.

"Stop this noise," he commanded harshly. "Where is Junior? What has happened?"

Katie choked and obeyed the steel in his voice.

"He in orchard. He fell out of tree and he no speak."

But I was at the head of the stairs before she had finished.

"Get Dicky and Lillian," I threw back over my shoulder as I dashed down the stairs through the hall and out the kitchen door, the nearest to the orchard. Behind me Mr. Underwood's voice boomed a message.

"I'll telephone for the doctor. You stay with the kid."

As I threw open the door I saw that there was no need to find Dicky. With a face from which every bit of color was drained, he was striding toward the house, our boy held carefully in his arms while Jim stumped beside him clearing every obstacle out of his way. As he saw my face he answered the question I dared not put.

"No, he isn't—" he balked at the word, "but he's stunned. Get a doctor, quick. Where'll I put him?"

"Harry's getting the doctor," I replied, whipping my faculties into action, and stamping relentlessly upon my fears while there was work to do. "Bring him right up to his own room. I'll go ahead."

I raced up the stairs, seeing that Mr. Underwood was at the telephone. Lillian called to me from Junior's room.

"I'm getting his own bed ready. That's what you wanted, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes," I gasped as I ran into the room where Lillian, with a cowed and weeping Katie assisting her, was transforming not only the bed but the room into hospital quarters. I went into action with them, and by the time Dicky laid the inert little figure of our boy down upon the bed, everything was in readiness for such first aid treatment as we could give before the arrival of a physician. How I longed for Katherine's skill and knowledge, but Mother Graham had insisted upon having her go with her to the village upon a shopping trip. I realize, however, that my mother-in-law's absence was a fortunate thing. She idolizes her grandson and her heart is weak. If she had heard Katie's wild cry the result might have spelled tragedy.

"Pettit will be here inside of 10 minutes," Harry Underwood's voice, controlled, strengthening, came from the doorway. "Caught him on a call at Bridgehampton. That's the advantage of having small country telephone circuits and helpful operators. I told Central my troubles and she found him for me at once."

His voice, the inconsequential words steadied me, as I guessed he meant them to do. And by the time he had finished speaking he was standing beside the bed. Dicky stepped to one side and motioned his friend toward the little figure and Mr. Underwood bent over the bed scanning the boy intently. From somewhere I recalled the fact that this man had seen much ambulance service during the war and I felt vaguely comforted when, after he had changed the little chap's position slightly, he turned to Lillian, took a wet piece of cotton from her and lightly sponged the blood from a small jagged flesh wound on Junior's cheek. He did it with an air that subtly conveyed his conviction that the accident was not a serious one, and though I knew that he was deliberately creating the effect for our reassurance, I found that my anguished suspense had lessened.

There was nothing for me to do but wait. Mr. Underwood had endeavored to rouse my boy by several devices, but with no success, and then we stood watching the beloved little face so white and still while the 10 minutes which Dr. Pettit had mentioned lengthened themselves into 15, 20 and 25. Then the telephone shrilled, and Harry Underwood strode into the hall to answer it.

"Yes, yes," we heard. Dr. Pettit? No? What's the matter with him?"

Some Timely Beauty Hints

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON.

TODAY we are going to have what we call in newspaper offices a column of "shorts." Meaning a column of short paragraphs, each complete in itself, but all having to do with one general subject. There are many beauty hints that are invaluable, but they are not important enough to be made into a full length article.

Undoubtedly many of you experience trouble pulling on your stockings just after bathing. Then there is danger of stretching the hose but of shape in the effort to get the seams running straight up and down in the back. This can be overcome by powdering the legs before putting on the stockings. The powder dries up the moisture that usually remains on the body after drying and so the stockings slip on smoothly.

A teacupful of ordinary washing borax and one teacupful of baking soda added to the bath water will prevent any possibility of body odor.

A tiny bit of spirits of camphor, if applied as soon as fever blisters make their appearance, will dry them up before they have a chance to fully develop.

The odor from cooked onions frequently can be removed by drinking a cup of strong, black coffee or by rinsing out the mouth with peroxide.

As a parting shot I can't help reminding you that you must saturate your hair with olive oil before shampooing it if you have a permanent wave and wish to keep the texture of your hair soft and glossy.

Star Backs Who Will Try :-: To Squeeze Syracuse Orange :-: In Battle at Stadium Today

FRANKLIN HOOD

The Pitt Panthers will depend on these four backs for their offensive power in the battle with the Syracuse eleven in the Stadium this afternoon. Hood will not be in the starting lineup, but will get in for his extraordinary forward-passing ability before the game is very old. Edwards will start at fullback, with Eddie Baker at quarter, and later will shift to the latter position to make room for Hood at fullback. The fleet and elusive Williams and Uansa will be at the halves.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Difficult for Pitt to Rise to Peak Again in Single Week for Syracuse—Sutherland Looks Equal to Task — Penn State Boy Shines as Brother Retires—Fields Looms as Possible Champion.

AFTER a gridiron team has been lifted to an unusual mental pitch and has been made to play inspired football in an important game for which it has been particularly pointed, as was Pitt last Saturday on the occasion of the annual struggle with Carnegie Tech, it's a hard job, if not actually an impossible one, to bring it back to anything like the same edge in a single week.

Lou Andreas.

For there is a natural let-down following a battle into which an eleven has thrown every ounce of its spirit, energy and playing ability. It takes time and the incentive of another eagerly-desired honor at stake to make the outfit rise again to the same degree of zeal and fighting aggressiveness.

SUCH is the task that confronts Dr. Sutherland today when he sends his Panthers against the strong team of Syracuse University at the Stadium, and upon the measure of success that rewards his efforts in that direction will depend largely the Blue and Gold's chances.

Ordinary football will not suffice to beat the gridders of Coach Lou Andreas. They showed their power on the last two Saturdays, first by holding Nebraska to a 7-to-6 score and actually outplaying the Cornhuskers after making a long trip to Lincoln, and then by traveling to State College and battling Penn State to a 6-to-6 draw.

IT WILL not be easy to cope with an opponent of that caliber, particularly as the Pittites again will be without the services of Fullback Tom Parkinson. This is the third major contest of the season for the Panthers, and it will require some tall hustling to keep the game from going the way of the other two.

However, it is at such times, particularly in November, that the coaching ability of Dr. Sutherland generally stands out, and though he is admittedly in a tough spot there is ground for the confidence that he will prove equal to the occasion, and steer the locals to victory, in spite of the hard nature of their afternoon's contract.

Joe Donchess.

FROM a Pitt student comes a letter proclaiming Joe Donchess, crack Panther end, to be as worthy of praise off the football field as he is for his deeds on the gridiron. "To keep up in his work as a student in the medical school," the correspondent writes, "Donchess has to devote part of each lunch hour to laboratory class. Class lasts until 4:30 o'clock. Joe doesn't get to football practice before 4:45, and he often stays there until 9 o'clock or later. In anatomy he is quick and skillful; so far, his dissection has ranked with the best. In microscopy he is up to date, an achievement unusual in itself. In chemistry, he is thorough. As a student,

TITANS FACE DUKES

By JESS CARVER.

BANNERS of Blue and White and banners of Orange are a'flutter today over the forces of two fearsome gridiron invaders, here for the purpose of putting to the test the Pitt and Duquesne varsity elevens. The Blue and White of Westminster will wave from the Bluff gridiron as the Titans clash with the Dukes, while the Orange of Syracuse will mingle with Pitt's Blue and Gold in the Stadium.

The football card for the entire country is of pleasing aspect. Several games on the schedule are of especial interest to Pittsburgh. Others, of intersectional and important sectional flavor, will attract attention due any good football game.

Syracuse is here for a renewal of gridiron relations with Pitt after a lapse of three years. The Orangemen come here with a gallant array of warriors, led by one of the East's leading bids for all-America quarterback honors, capable Hal Baysinger. The team, well drilled and under the fine tutelage of Lou Andreas, is of high caliber, well fitted to serve to the grid fans as fine a brand of football as will be offered here this year.

GAME LOOMS AS TOSSUP

The weather is going to have a lot to do with the establishing of a favorite. I can see no reason why the game should not be regarded as a toss-up. Syracuse is known to possess a deceptive and well-laid aerial attack. The Orange lost to the powerful Nebraska eleven 7-6, in a game in which the Cornhuskers were outplayed. Of course, the tie with Penn State did not serve to boost the Syracusian stock. State teams are a lot different when play-

GEORGETOWN, N. Y. U. SET FOR CLASH

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Heading the list of college football meetings in the East is the "battle of the unbeaten" between New York University and Georgetown, two of the leading contenders for the mythical eastern championship of major college teams. The Army, which also presents a clean record and a claim to recognition at this stage, has a day of comparative rest against Depauw University of Greencastle, Ind., at West Point, after having beaten Harvard and Yale on successive Saturdays.

New York University is the favorite by a none too convincing margin, but Georgetown, with 240 points to its credit in five games, leads the East in scoring. N. Y. U. is ready to match that showing with a total of 176 points against harder opposition and the remarkable individual record of Ken Strong, who leads the entire country with 91 points as the grist of his flying feet.

Speaking Of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

AMONG things that strike me as quite humorous are those signs about town advertising the Carnegie Tech-Georgetown game at Albany, N. Y., next Saturday. Here that game between two of the strongest elevens in the East is only a week away and still no one has been able to learn exactly why they are trying it on the dog in Albany, far, far from the stamping grounds of either institution. It has been suggested that maybe they are playing it in Albany for spite. But to spite whom, and why?

Syracuse should beat Pitt in their battle in the Stadium this afternoon, according to the machinations of the dope, but probably won't. Pitt is one of Syracuse's jinx teams, of which there seem to be many, among them Nebraska, Penn State and W. & J. The Salt City elevens always

TIGERS BATTLE BUCKEYES IN FEATURE

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Intersectional day will be celebrated in the Western Conference today with the game between two undefeated elevens, Princeton and Ohio State, at Columbus, completely overshadowing the two other intersectional conflicts.

From Alabama will come an eleven that resembles the Crimson Tide of other years in name only, to invade Madison for a game with the Badgers, while Pennsylvania will engage the down-trodden Maroons here. It will be the biggest intersectional day in Big Ten history.

While these games are in progress, two strictly conference affairs will be up for decision, with Minnesota and Northwestern, both defeated, renewing relations at Northwestern, and Illinois, bounding along towards another Western Conference championship, meeting Michigan at Ann Arbor.

HOOSIERS IDLE

For the other Big Ten teams today will be a breathing spell or a day of complete rest. Iowa will play South Dakota at Iowa City, Case will furnish the opposition for Purdue at Lafayette, while Indiana will sit back and watch the results from other battle fronts. The Hoosiers welcome the rest to pre-

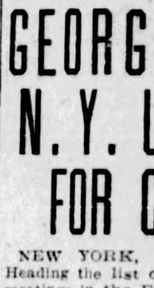
Harpster Wishes Baysinger Luck Against Pitt

By JESS CARVER.

BEFORE Howard Harpster, captain of the Carnegie Tech football team and one of the leaders in the race for all-America quarterback honors, left for New York where he will scout Georgetown and New York University as they clash in the Yankee Stadium today, he got in touch with Hal Baysinger, Syracuse captain and another contender for the mythical all-star team quarter post.



Harold Baysinger

Howard Harpster

Baysinger and Harpster both hail from Akron, O., although the Syracuse star left that town after his freshman year in high school. He and Harpster were playmates while in the grade schools and put in one year together in high school. Baysinger then removed to Norwich, N. Y., where he finished his scholastic career while Harpster remained in Akron.

Harpster did not have time to make the trip to Beaver Falls where the Syracuse team was quartered yesterday, but he got in touch with his old friend by phone and wished him luck against Pitt today and possibly gave him a valuable tip or two on the Panthers.

TURNOUT MAY SET RECORD

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—On a day sparkling with the color of intersectional combat but flavored [illegible] well, by the rivalry of old [illegible] tional feuds, somewhere around 2,500,000 football fans will turn out today for the November blast that carries college teams down the home stretch.

There seems to be more truth than poetry in the blizzard idea. Gridirons of the Middle West are in the path of a Rocky Mountain snow storm, which may not only cool some of fandom's enthusiasm for the great fall sport, but also make the footing treacherous for teams that rely on speed and overhead play.

Nevertheless, the turnout appears certain to break all records so far this season. Three of the outstanding affairs of the day promise to attract somewhere around 80,000 each, with Illinois invading Michigan, Princeton traveling to Ohio State and Stanford journeyng to Southern California to play before capacity crowds.

BIG CROWDS TO ATTEND

Close to 50,000, or more, are expected to be on hand for such other noteworthy games as Georgetown-New York University at the Yankee Stadium, Yale-Dartmouth in the Yale Bowl, Alabama-Wisconsin at Madison, Notre Dame-Penn State at Franklin Field, Chicago-Pennsylvania at Stagg Field, Oregon-Cali-

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Baseball was stricken from the books as a varsity sport at Franklin and Marshall College here by the athletic committee, according to an announcement today by Wallace L. Robinson, graduate manager of athletics.

SOUTH HILLS, NEW CASTLE PLAY TODAY

South Hills High School, one of Pittsburgh's four unbeaten scholastic football teams, faces the test of the season today. The South Hills crew is to engage Phil Bridenbaugh's crack New Castle machine at New Castle and is the third city eleven to essay to stop the Lawrence county stars on their own gridiron. Westinghouse and Schenley have both failed.

This game heads an attractive card of scholastic battles for the day. There are no games in the city proper, but at Wilkinsburg Elmer Carroll's Holy City eleven will stack up against Norwin High, rated a strong foe.

Beaver Falls High, seeking the W. P. I. A. L. championship, may strike a snag in its title cruise at Butler, where a strong team has been primed to take the measure of the Tigers. Little Beaver High, the school that upset the dope a week ago by holding the heavy Aliquippa eleven to a scoreless deadlock, meets New Brighton on the latter's grid.

T. C. U. AT WASHINGTON

Turtle Creek Union will attempt to succeed where even New Castle failed by toppling Washington Ligonier and Greensburg play a Westmoreland county classic at Greensburg. Scottdale and Connellsville, old rivals, clash at Connellsville. Donora will afford Uniontown plenty of opposition at Uniontown, and Monessen and Monongahela figure to put up a great game at Monongahela City.

Shady Side Academy is in Buffalo today for a game with the Nichols School eleven, of that place. The contest is the first for the Pittsburgh school in the Tri-State Prep League. The locals entrained last night for Buffalo in charge of Coach Palmer.

A feature of the Charleroi-California High School game will be the presentation of the M. P. Bumbera Memorial Trophy to the victor. The trophy is emblematic of the Monongahela Valley scholastic gridiron championship and is being presented by M. P. Bumbera, a brother of the late Pitt graduate and well-known football follower, who died at the close of the 1927 grid season.

SCHENLEY BEATEN

Yesterday Schenley's hopes of copping the Section 1 title in the City League were given quite a setback when Peabody pulled a 13-7 victory out of the fire with a brilliant fourth-period rally. Schenley went into the final quarter with a 7-0 lead, scored after a sustained march of some 70 yards. But a forward pass put the ball on the goal line, from which point it was plunged across in a single attempt.

Schenley still had a chance to land a tie, but in an effort to score Dave Brown tossed a southpaw pass into the flat zone, which was intercepted by Halfback Noonan for Peabody and run back for the winning touchdown. Restoratives were needed to bring Walter Gross back to this sphere. He was ready to start operations on a harp.

PERRY DEFEATED

Allegheny High upset the title aspirations of Perry High by eking out a 6-0 win on the Oliver High field. It was a real contest from beginning to end, Weimer scoring the lone touchdown and Horton missing the placement kick. The tally came in the first quarter. As a result, South High is almost conceded the Section 2 title.

In other games Carrick and Pitcairn played to a 6-all tie; South and Fifth Avenue battled to a scoreless deadlock; Dormont defeated McKees Rocks, 18-7; Duquesne set down Homestead, 12-0; Rankin beat Glassport, 7-0; Braddock and Stowe played without either team scoring; Carnegie lost to Bellevue, 12-0; New Brighton beat Beaver, 18-6, and Oakmont trimmed Arnold, 19-6.

The Allegheny-Perry lineup:

| ALLEGHENY—6. | | PERRY—0. |

LANDIS WARNS BRAVES, CARDS FOR TAMPERING

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—A caustic warning against future tampering with players of other clubs was issued yesterday by Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis. The warning was the outgrowth of the St. Louis Cardinals' charge that the Boston Braves had tampered with Coach Allen Sothoron, while yet a member of the National League champions. Sothoron later joined the Boston club as coach.

While imposing no penalty on the Boston Club or Manager Rogers Hornsby, Commissioner Landis said the latter was unjustified in dealing with Sothoron in the absence of any approval of the transaction by the St. Louis officials. Although the commissioner ruled that Sothoron had misrepresented the facts to the Boston Club, he imposed no penalty on the former Card coach.

RENE DE VOS BEATS DAVE SHADE AGAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Rene De Vos, Belgian menace to the world's middleweight crown held by Mickey Walker, defeated Dave Shade, San Francisco challenger, in a 10-round battle here last night. It was the second victory the Belgian invader has scored over the San Francisco veteran.

The victory established the European as the legitimate challenger for Walker's championship. The experts at the ring side credited the Belgian with winning five rounds, with two going to Shade and the remaining even. Each weighed 158 3-4 pounds.

PITT-SYRACUSE TILT RATED TOSSUP

ing at State College than when they appear here.

Syracuse will outweigh the Panthers on the line and in the backfield. The greater advantage will be found on the line and may run 10 pounds or more to the man.

There is but one reason that might be put forth in making Syracuse a slight favorite. Pitt must go into the battle for the second week in succession minus the services of Tom Parkinson, the plunging fullback whose absence worked to the disadvantage of the Panthers against Tech a week ago. Parky won't even don a uniform today and it is extremely unlikely he'll even be fit for duty against Wash-Jeff next week.

But his absence today, especially should the going be heavy, is bound to be a severe handicap to the Panthers. Edwards, erstwhile quarterback, is to be at the fullback post. Charley went well against Tech, playing the new position, and with a week's drill may show great improvement today. Baker is to be at quarter and Uansa and Josh Williams, the speed boys, will start at the halves.

PITT DEFENSE STRONG

The Panthers feel that they have built a capable defense for Baysinsinger's passes. Coach Sutherland is of the belief that the Pitt defense will be able to check the Orange running attack, which is led by Sammy Sebo, the plunging Berner and Baysinger. If that is the case, Uansa and Williams have displayed ability enough as ball toters in the intricate Pitt double and triple passes to warrant the assumption that they'll do some ground gaining today.

The Syracuse squad arrived in town this morning from Beaver Falls, where it has been quartered since arriving in this locality yesterday morning. The Orangemen worked out on the Geneva College gridiron in Reeves Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Today's game, unlike those of the past weeks, will start at 2 o'clock—and that means promptly. Don't forget and come staggering in, pardon, waltzing in at 2:30 and then wonder why the first half is nearly over.

The sledding up on the Bluff isn't going to be so very easy for the Dukes. Westminster has taken a few on the chin, but the Titans got away against Thiel last week and won a Conference game.

DUKES CRIPPLED

Duquesne is in far from the best of physical trim. Burns, one of the team's most dependable ball carriers and pass receivers, is still out of the lineup. Kelleher, the big guard, has been battered from pillar to post and back again in the last three games, and with an injured hip and a wrenched shoulder, cannot be depended upon in the event that the United Presbyterians elect to hammer at the center of the Duquesne line. And if the gridiron is wet and soggy, they may do just that.

Westminster has a capable set of backs in Havrilla, Dible, Mcuiston and Holzapfel. The latter outpunted Howard Harpster of Tech in the Titan-Skibo game at Youngstown. He handles the ball well on passes and is a heady field general. Havrilla is a line-pounding fool—he hits hard and has a lot of charge. Watch him today.

Graduate Manager of Athletics Holohan has made arrangements for a sell-out crowd, despite the counter attraction at the Stadium. The Dukes were skyrocketed into the limelight when they toppled Wash-Jeff, and have remained there, despite the setback at the hands of Geneva a week ago.

If the Dukes win today, they'll go into a tie for second place in the Conference with Westminster. All they have to do is to win.

TARTANS SCOUTING

Carnegie Tech, enjoying a day of rest, is represented both at the New York University-Georgetown battle in New York, and the Penn State-Notre Dame affair at Philadelphia. New York, Georgetown and Penn State remain to be played by the Skibos, and they are fortunate in that they are able to scout all three in a single afternoon.

The biggest game in the district, aside from the two here in Pittsburgh, is the Geneva-Grove City fracas at Beaver Falls. This game carries along with it the first crack at the minor college title. Geneva and the Grovers are old and honorable, albeit somewhat bitter rivals.

Geneva rules a slight favorite over the Crimson. The Covenanters have been downed once this fall, Bucknell scoring a triumph at Reeves Stadium three weeks ago. The Grovers are undefeated, though tied by Bill Donohoe's St. Francis eleven.

Wash-Jeff, sorely tried and battered physically, is back East again, playing Lafayette at Easton. Douds, Aschman and Robinson, the three stars of the team, who have shown fine strength in all of the W. & J. games so far, are out of action today. Bus Edwards and Gilchrist will have to carry the burden of both the attack and defense.

West Virginia Wesleyan plays the Navy at Annapolis; Thiel and Allegheny mix it at Greenville, and St. Francis plays St. Vincents in a promising Catholics' school game at Latrobe. This completes the schedule for the district.

May your feet stay dry and your throat grow hoarse.

CASE CONTINUED

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Efforts by counsel for Harold (Red) Grange former University of Illinois football star, to have Judge Fetzer quash a paternity charge against their client on the ground that the complaint erroneously listed the complaintant, Mrs. Helen Morrisey Fiosek, as an unmarried woman, failed yesterday. Judge Walter Fetzer said he would have to hear further evidence today before taking any action.

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

in fact, he is an A man. His worst dissipation seems to be studying.

"THE popularity of Donchess is not built on his playing ability. He is courteous and gentlemanly at all times and makes friends everywhere. He has been nominated unanimously for vice president of the freshman 'meds.'

"Joe is as bashful as a girl, especially about his football. Say the least thing to him about his good game, and he'll deny it, or hand the bouquet to some one else. He is a thorough home boy, too. When he is occasionally hurt in a game, to spare his parents worry, he does not tell them of his mishap until he is fit again."

CARNEGIE TECH escapes Pitt's task of trying a comeback in a hard game within a week of last Saturday's gruelling struggle. The Steffenites spend an open date resting today, a favorable break that should enable them to get back to form gradually for next Saturday's tussle with Georgetown in Albany, N. Y.

There is no let-down for the Dukes, as they will have their hands full in a meeting with Westminster, following last week's tough argument with Geneva. In connection with today's tilt on the Bluff, a reference to it in a New York newspaper shows again how absurdly inaccurate is the dope of Eastern critics on Western Pennsylvania football affairs. The Gotham paper, in estimating the number of persons that will attend the various college games today, expresses the opinion that the Duquesne-Westminster game will be witnessed by a crowd of 20,000.

John French.

WALTER FRENCH, former West Point football and baseball star, who was picked by Walter Camp for a halfback position on his third all-America grid team in 1921, and who has been a member of the Philadelphia Athletics as an outfielder since 1925, has become associated with a mail order house in Chicago and intends to retire from baseball. Accordingly he has asked Manager Connie Mack to place him on the voluntarily retired list. But though one French thus withdraws from the sports field, another has come in to take his place, for his younger brother, John Cooper French, is the brilliant quarterback of the Pennsylvania State College eleven.

THE younger French, who prepared at Staunton Military Academy, is a sophomore at Penn State, and this year, therefore, is his first on the varsity team. From what he has shown to date he is likely to win a place among the brightest stars of the Blue and White before the end of his college career. He is a triple-threat man and shows great promise in every branch of play. It was he who scored the touchdown that gave Penn State a tie with Syracuse last Saturday. Like his brother was, John is a baseball player of parts as well as a gridiron performer.

JACKIE FIELDS, whose quick knockout of Sammy Baker has made him the most talked about fighter of the hour and won for him recognition as the leading contender for Joe Dundee's welterweight title, has demonstrated that a fighter can develop near-championship form after an unimpressive start.

Fields, a Jewish lad, whose proper name is John Finkelstein, and who was originally a Chicagoan, not a Californian, was beaten in 10 rounds by Kid Kaplan in his Eastern debut on June 15, 1927, and though later he defeated Frankie Fink and Joie Kaufman he was adjudged by the critics as being nothing more than a moderately flashy boxer with a light punch.

Jackie Fields.

BUT since then Fields has shown convincingly that the early dope on him was all wrong. He has not only a future, but a present, and instead of lacking a punch he has uncovered one of the hardest wallops in his class on the coast. He has laced the outstanding pair of Negro stars, Jack Thompson and Baby Joe Gans, Thompson being all but knocked out in the closing rounds, and his feat of stopping Baker on top of those performances cause him to stand out as a boxer-fighter who will not easily be kept from rising to the championship of his division.

YALE DEDICATES CAMP MEMORIAL

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—With tribute paid to the sportsmanship of the late Walter Camp, a great memorial to the father of modern football was dedicated at Yale today.

A passive gateway leading to the Yale bowl and athletic fields forms the memorial given by American colleges and schools uniting with graduates of Yale to honor Camp "and the traditions of American college sport which he exemplified."

Delivering the principal address, E. K. Hall, of Dartmouth, chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association committee in charge of the plans for the memorial, praised the spirit prompting participation by other colleges and schools.

Mr. Hall, a life-long friend of Walter Camp, and head of the football rules committee, came, he said, to speak of a man who understood as few men have, the American boy.

"No man has done more for American sport than Walter Camp, but his greatest contribution to sport is the standards of sportsmanship," he declared. "No man has done more to build up the code which, if we preserve it, will keep our sports clean and wholesome for all time and maintain these sports as one of the powerful sources of our nation's strength and our national character.

"That is why this monument is here. That is why the schools and colleges of the country rejoice today in having shared the privilege of building this memorial."

PITT CUBS BEAT KISKI, 26-6

SALTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 3.—For the first time in the season, Kiski took one on the chin here yesterday afternoon when it clashed with the Pitt Freshmen. The score was 26 to 6 in favor of Pitt. Murphy, the slippery left half on the Pitt Frosh, was the hero of the game, scoring three touchdowns, intercepting a forward pass for a touchdown, and generally acquitting himself in a manner befitting a varsity player instead of a freshman. Kiski's stars were Abbott, who scored his team's only touchdown, Gray who intercepted a forward while practically prostrate and Vuchinich.

Kiski battled the Pitt Frosh on practically even terms throughout the first half, making the first score. This touchdown came near the beginning of the second quarter when two Pitt backfield men let a punt drop between them and Kiski recovered it in a mad scramble on the Pitt 12-yard line. Abbott, Kiski's right half, then took a triple pass and scored on it.

Pitt's first score came when Kiski, safeguarding its lead, kicked the ball to Pitt, near the end of the half. McDowell, of Pitt, took the punt and ran it back 40 yards to Kiski's 12-yard line. The Kiski line held several Pitt charges, but then Murphy went off tackle and scored his first touchdown. Neither team could make any headway in the third quarter, kicking back and forth on the third down, but in the last period Pitt drove down the field and, with a fourth down and six to go, Daugherty, a Kiski star of last year, but now at Pitt, threw a pass to Murphy, who scored on it. A few minutes later, Murphy snagged a Kiski pass and ran through the team for a touchdown. The last Pitt score was made when Johnson threw a pass to Kaufmann, who crossed the goal line on it. The lineup:

| Pitt Freshmen—26. | | Kiski—6. |
|---|---|---|
| Kaufmann | L. E. | Watt |

Trick Home Runs Hurting Baseball

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE little wallops sustained in the pocketbook vicinity by many big league magnates during the past season may have the effect of stirring these men to action in the interest of the game when they assemble at the annual winter powwow next month.

The trick home run is one false development of the sport that seems to be hurting it. That the fans are becoming sick and tired of the popfly circuit drives is admitted by many doctors holding casual and intentional clinics.

Sunny Jim Bottomley, Hack Wilson, Rogers Hornsby, Lou Gehrig and other home run sockers are fine hitters, but put them in real ball orchards for 154 games and you could safely bet that none of them would get half of the round-trippers accredited them.

Babe Ruth is the lone, striking exception. The Bambino hits them so far you would have to put a fence around a nine-hole golf course to keep the rocket within the enclosure. Babe's superiority over his rivals actually would be enhanced if parks all had as much area, we will say, as Redland Field, Cincinnati, which appears to be the best ball orchard of them all so far as playing space is concerned. Forbes Field is generally agreed upon as the prettiest.

With the various parks constructed the way they are, it would be a hard job to effect any immediate change looking toward bigger fields. The best way out of the sorry best lies in the zoning plan, an idea that had favor of Ban Johnson and others who appear to know about the needs of the game.

Judge Landis, John Heydler and E. S. Barnard, the latter two being the presidents of the two major leagues, have been silent on progressive legislation of this nature. Perhaps they think the present arrangement is satisfactory, but if they do they surely will not find unanimity among the players on the question.

At least five parks in the National League should have zones restricting the batter to two bases. And then the hitter often would be favored, as many of the lofts that leave the playing field in the bandbox parks would be ordinary putouts.

In any event it would not be amiss to give the zoning plan a trial. The student fan who likes to follow the game closely certainly is "fed-up" on this unearned increment.

SNOW MAY HINDER BIG SIX GRID GAMES

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Rain, slush and cold—envoys of King Winter, sent into the mid-West in the heart of the football season—may make a mess of Big Six games this week-end.

And with the advent of these adverse conditions the odds on the Nebraska "Powerhouse" running rough shod over Kansas have fallen to such an extent that the heretofore much-favored Huskers may enter the game on even terms with the Jayhawkers. Nebraska and Kansas meet in Lawrence in the feature game of the circuit this week.

Minor injuries from the Syracuse and Missouri games has left the Nebraska squad in none too good condition. However, Blue Howell, co-captain and fullback, who is rapidly gaining recognition as an all-America possibility, as well as leading a team which is making a strong bid for national honors, will be in the fray, even if some of his regular mates are forced to warm the bench.

Oklahoma, with a free-scoring victory over Kansas Aggies in its first Conference game, will journey north to Ames to meet Iowa State. Bo McMillin's Kansas Aggies will be idle.

3-CUSHION NATIONAL TOURNEY DEC. 17-19

HIGH STRUNG CAPTURES PIMLICO FUTURITY RACE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—High Strung, Marshall Field's chestnut 2-year-old, winner of the Belmont futurity, added to his honors by winning the Pimlico futurity yesterday in the classic of the second day of racing at Pimlico.

The two-time futurity winner beat out Walter J. Salmon's Dr. Freeland by a head in a thrilling finish. Meddle, E. R. McLean's entry, was six lengths in the rear for third place.

There were 10 starters. Constitution, Jean Valjean and Sun Broom having been withdrawn. The race was worth $51,650 to High Strung, a heavy favorite in the betting. The winner paid $3.70 to win, $2.20 to place and $2.60 for show. Dr. Freeland paid $7.50 place money and $3.70 to show. Meddle paid $3.90 for show.

The first West Penn cup tie of the season will be staged today at Lawrence Park when the Swissvale aggregation tangles with the Pittsburgh Celtics. These teams are old rivals and a wonderful game is expected.

However, the best contest of the season will be flashed at the Homewood playgrounds when the Pittsburgh Rovers hook up with the Pittsburgh Soccer Club. This is the game that all the East End soccer fans should turn out to see, and anyone else interested in sports. The Rovers and Pittsburgh are two of the greatest teams in the district from a scientific standpoint, and the game at Homewood playgrounds will be well worth going to see.

Three games are scheduled in the Scholastic League. The Smilers and Rovers will play a preliminary to the cup tie game at Lawrence Park.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE tenth anniversary of the armistice soon to be celebrated prompts Charlie Doyle to write to Sidewalks. Mr. Doyle was a correspondent with the A. E. F., covering particularly the activities of Pittsburgh and tri-state district soldiers in the war. He writes:

"With the tenth anniversary soon upon us perhaps it would be interesting to dwell on the contrast offered by present-day Pittsburghers. These young men formed a mixed military cast which trod the cold and desolate battlefields of France, the common thought being a prayer and a hope the war would end soon.

"It is appealing to note how the private insignia in the ranks of the A. E. F. often marked a highly interesting and important personality which in peace times could rise to responsible positions of trust.

"For instance, a young fellow named Foster was an obscure private in the Signal Battalion of the Eightieth Division. If you meet him now you would say: 'Good morning, Judge.' or 'Your Honor,' for D. Paulson Foster, ex-buck private, is now Judge Foster of the County Court.

"GEORGE KLIER is a tipstaff in the local courts. Ten years ago those members of the Eightieth Division were talking of the bravery under fire that cost Klier a leg and won for him the Distinguished Service Medal of his own country and the Croix de Guerre of France.

* * *

"In your own office there are Norman Digby, who was a sergeant; Dwight Fee, another sergeant; Bill Grundish and Syd Weinschenk, to mention only a few soldiers who laid down their pens for the sword and now have returned to the so-called mightier weapon. Soldiers who enjoyed that rare war paper, 'Stars and Stripes,' may be interested to know that Col. Guy T. Viskniskki, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, put the Stars and Stripes in the journalistic field.

"JOHN VACHETTA, secretary of the Armistice Day parade committee, was gassed with the Three Hundred and Fifteenth

Artillery. John is back here now serving Italian meals and giving free lessons on the best method of mastering the endless spaghetti.

"Burg Clarke left soldiering after the armistice—he was with the Three Hundred and Fifth Motor Supply Train—to become secretary of the Grenoble Hotel Corporation.

"You can find out about the Twenty-eighth Division boys by stepping out of your office and yelling: 'Hey, Sully.' Traffic Policeman John J. Sullivan, an eminent apostle of democracy, by the way, was with the Keystone scrappers. He was a lieutenant.

"THE Muirs and the Shannons—they're all fine generals, those boys—never fail to stop to salute Sully who presides over the Great American Handicap that starts each afternoon on Bigelow boulevard.

* * *

"And, by the way, the Armistice Day committee would like you to mention that their affair is to be a big event. Gen. Muir and Gen. Shannon, of the Twenty-eighth, and Col.

Cocheu and Col. Peyton, of the Eightieth, will review the marchers.

"A lot of the boys who haven't had the uniform on for 10 years are going to turn out this year. You see, the armistice is sufficiently historical now to take on a romantic significance."

LOCKHARTS REVEALED AS DONORS

The donors of the annuities of $30,000 each given anonymously to the Shadyside Presbyterian Church and the Sixth United Presbyterian Church were discovered today to be James H. Lockhart, vice president of the Lockhart Iron and Steel Company, and Mrs. Lockhart.

On Sunday, October 7, Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Church, and Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian, announced from their pulpit that a family of the congregation had created a trust fund which would yield an annual income to the church of over $30,000. It was stipulated, the ministers said, that the name of the donor should not be mentioned, nor at any time made public. It was apparent that the total of the two funds must be at least a million dollars.

Mr. Lockhart is a member of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church and his wife is a member of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Lockhart is a very wealthy man. He is interested in religious activities and is known to have made large contributions to such work without permitting his name to be used as that of the donor.

It was accordingly surmised that he was the giver of the trust funds to the two churches, and when the question was put to persons in position to know the facts they admitted the conjecture was correct.

Mr. Lockhart is a director of the Alpha Portland Cement Company, the Mellon National Bank, the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Company, the Union Savings Bank, the Union Trust Company, and the United Engineering and Foundry Company.

He is a trustee of the Carnegie Institute, a member of the board of managers of the Kingsley Association, a trustee of the Mellon Institute, a director of the Tuberculosis League, a trustee of the University Pittsburgh, a director of the Pennsylvania Hospital, and a trustee of the Young Men's Christian Association.

TOT IS HIT IN FRONT OF HOME

Joseph Just, 507 Stokes avenue, North Braddock, was held for manslaughter by a coroner's jury after an inquest into the death of Maybelle Beatrice Herd, 3, of 565 Corey avenue, Braddock, who died October 13 from injuries received October 5 when she was struck by a machine, driven by Just, in front of her home.

The same jury exonerated Dr. H. C. Duncan, 835 Braddock avenue, in the death of Alexander Patterson, 8, of 229 Third street, Braddock, who died October 12, after being struck by a machine driven by Dr. Duncan at Third and Fourth streets, Braddock. Both inquests were held in the Braddock Borough Building.

In an inquest held by Coroner W. J. McGregor in Rankin Borough Building in the death of Roy Smith, 44, Palmer street, Swissvale, who was shot and killed October 3 by Officer John DeRubbo, of the Rankin police force, the jury exonerated the policeman. Smith was shot on the Braddock-Swissvale Bridge after he had fired four shots at the policeman, some of the shots entering the officer's chest. DeRubbo testified he fired at Smith in self-defense. According to the testimony offered at the inquest Smith had trouble with his wife and made inquiry of the officer if a warrant had been issued for his (Smith's) arrest. Being informed to the contrary, Smith is alleged to have shoved a gun in the officer's stomach and then went in the direction of Swissvale. A short time later J. Bowser, of Swissvale, complained to DeRubbo that Smith had threatened his (Hughes) life, whereupon the officer started in pursuit of Smith, who had gone across the bridge. Smith seeing the officer approach opened fire and DeRubbo returned the fire, shot Smith. Smith with several bullets in his body walked to the cellar of his home in Swissvale, where he collapsed and died. Edward Hughes, also of Swissvale, offered corroborative testimony of the officer's version of the shooting, as did Bowser. The jury was out five minutes.

MEETS OTHER MRS. BROWN TOO MUCH, ASKS DIVORCE

Finding her husband in the arms of another woman in Tumble Inn, conducted by her husband at a roadside stand outside of East McKeesport, Louise E. Brown, 1519 Hoff street, North Side, wants Judge George V. Moore of Common Pleas Court to divorce her from J. W. Brown.

Mrs. Brown discovered last year that all was not well in her married life. A letter addressed to Mrs. Brown containing a lease for furniture made out to Viola Brown, caused her to investigate. She had not contracted for any furniture. She called up the inn, asked for Mrs. Brown, and a woman answered who said she was Mrs. Brown. As the real Mrs. Brown was on the other end of the line, the one at the inn promised to call on her but did not. The next morning, Mrs. Brown went to the inn, where her husband had living quarters and found the other woman with her husband. Mrs. Louise Brown asked her husband to take her back to her home, which he did. Later he turned over his interest in the inn to her and Brown left and that is the last she has heard of Brown and the other woman. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married in 1917, Brown serving in the World War.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 3.

Al paraded in his home town here. His reception couldn't have been any bigger if he had swam the channel, or stowed away on an airship.

He started the parade at eleven o'clock, so early that Jimmy Walker had to accompany him in boudoir cap and pajamas. Smith presented Walker with the keys of the city.

Mrs. Al Smith paid us a lovely compliment last night by attending our show. Al was speaking somewhere, too. But I guess she wanted to come and listen to reason one night out of the campaign.

Only two more days, and Coolidge and I are still holding out. I am for Curtis and Robinson splitting the vice presidency between 'em.

It's really too much for one man to handle. They could take it time about, keeping their names before the public while the other one was acting as Vice President.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Unloading After Election? Dear Money Has Bad Effect

By B. C. FORBES

HOOVER'S election would bring, if Wall Street runs true to form, efforts by the big bulls to unload on the public extensive amounts of stock. Should Wall Street's expectations be not fulfilled, and Gov. Smith elected, then the market's guardians doubtless would try to absorb as much as possible of the public selling, in the hope of being able later to work off their accumulations.

Conceivably the immediate response to a Hoover victory would be a wild demonstration on the buying side. But don't imagine for a moment the pools which are carrying enormous lines are eager to add to their holdings for the purpose of retaining them as investments.

Pools are not organized to invest. They are organized to speculate. Usually they want quick profits.

---

W. C. DURANT, the kingpin of the market's leaders, lost no ntime on his return from Europe in getting busy with his favorite issues. Associates declare that he is really as bullish as his published statements. Some others who have been bullish have become rather eager to turn paper profits into hard cash.

One intimate friend estimates that Durant's fortune at present stock market prices exceeds a quarter of a billion dollars. How much will or will not remain when he finally gets from under is another question.

---

THE New York curb market has been witnessing a little flurry of its own in one stock, formerly not active, rainbow luminous. It was selling around $25 a share when the United States Supreme Court found it guilty of using patents rightfully belonging to another company. Instead of the decision causing the stock to decline, a furious movement upwards was started in it and within a week a rise of 80 per cent was engineered on hectic dealings.

Ordinarily, adverse Supreme Court decisions don't help a company's stock, but weird sometimes are the ways of stock manipulators.

INFLUENTIAL banking sentiment is, if anything, more cautious than ever regarding stocks, notwithstanding the admitted recent improvement in business. F. O. Wetmore, chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago, expressed the prevailing sentiment among bankers when he told me:

"Business in most lines will probably remain satisfactory for the balance of the year. There seems to have been a fairly steady upward trend since the middle of this year. Consumption of electrical energy, car loadings, volume of manufactures, crops all seem to be satisfactory.

"Money rates continue high, but most banks are giving preference to their commercial customers so that these have not been sufferers. The probabilities are that rates will remain up through the year since speculation is still absorbing an unusual amount of credit and it does not appear likely that there will be a sufficient flood of gold into the country to furnish an offset."

HIGH-GRADE brokers are taking and Bond every precaution to guard themselves against financial embarrassment should the stock market decline downwards. The day of 10 per cent or lower margins is gone. What some second-rate brokers may be doing is another matter. Here is a typical notice sent out by one stock exchange firm:

"Recent advances in the price of securities have brought many stocks to a level from which we may at any time experience a substantial reaction. We consequently consider it wise to increase margin requirements on securities carried for our customers. Effective November 1st, we shall require the following margin:

"For stocks selling over $40 a share we will require a margin of 20 per cent of the market value.

"For stocks selling from $20 to $40 a share we will require a margin of 10 points.

"For stocks selling from $10 to $20, 7 points.

"Stocks selling under $10 a share to be paid for in full.

"In special cases we may require margin in excess of the above."

---

HIGH money rates are cutting down new offerings of securities. October's total was only $500,000,000, contrasted with fully $870,000,000 in October of last year. For the 10 months of this year the bond offerings are more than $1,000,000,000 under a year ago, but stock flotations have increased $300,000,000. If money rates continue so high as to restrict the raising of new capital, business and labor both are likely to feel the effect. Abnormal stock speculation brings more than one evil in its train.

NEXT week promises to be an interesting one.

PRE-ELECTION SALES SEND STOCKS OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Heavy pre-election profit-taking sales turned the course of stock prices irregular today after an open interval of strength. Trading was relatively quiet, indicating the temporary withdrawal of many large traders from the market. Several soft spots cropped out through the list, but there was no evidence of any concerted "bear" selling.

Leading commission houses emphasized caution in view of the record-breaking loan totals. While some observers attributed the large gains in loans to the unusually large volume of new financing in recent weeks, others saw evidence of widespread distribution of stocks.

Week-end trade reviews generally were favorable. Steel output continues at a high rate and the seasonal recession in automobile production and sales has been less marked than usual. The demand for copper continues unusually heavy, and further improvement is noted in the oil trade.

Public utilities shares attracted a large following in today's market. American Power and Light ran up more than 3 points and gains of a point or more were recorded by Commonwealth Power, American Water Works, Electric Power and Light and Southern California Edison.

Radio lost an early gain of 2 points and Barnet Leather converted an early advance of 3 points into a loss of similar extent. Montgomery Ward sold off 5 points, Abitibi Power preferred and Goodyear 2 each. Ward Baking preferred dipped 2 points to a new low at 81¾. Such recent favorites as United States Steel common, Hudson Motors, American Telephone and Union Pacific also dropped a point or more.

Buffalo and Susquehanna added nearly 5 points to its 4-point gain of yesterday by touching a new top at 54⅜. Timken Roller Bearing sold 4½ points above yesterday's final quotation and Devoe and Reynolds 3½.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—Wheat prices receded today from initial gains which were associated with reports that the Canadian growers pool was buying distant liverpool future deliveries. Bears made much of commencement that the American official trade agents of Russia denied wheat purchasing for Russia is contemplated. Opening 3/4c to 1c up, wheat later declined to below yesterday's finish. Corn also turned easier starting a shade to 1/4c higher, and afterward ranging that way. Oats held steady. Provisions were likewise stationary.

Dearth of buying rather than any increase of pressure to sell accomplished declines in wheat values today. In this connection, bullish effect, which in some quarters had been asserted as likely to go hand in hand with Mr. Hoover's St. Louis address dealing with the agricultural situation, appeared at times to have been more than discounted by advances yesterday on which profits had been collected.

Meanwhile, attention focused by more today on explicit statements from Russian representatives in this country that contrary to current reports no purchases whatever of Canadian or other grain is in prospect for Russia. The statements declared moreover, that the wheat crop this year in Russia is satisfactory, and exceeds that of last year by 2,000,000 tons. Under such circumstances, transient upturns decided general setback.

NARROW PRICE MOVEMENTS IN QUIET MARKET HERE

LONE STAR GAS FIRM, ENGINEERING RECEDES

The week closed quietly on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with a comparatively light turnover and prices holding close to the previous finals in all but a few cases.

Lone Star Gas was firm around 59, but there was no noticeable activity in the stock. Arkansas Gas common, which slipped back suddenly yesterday, was steady around 3½, the figure to which it recovered in the last trading last night after having been down to 3, a new current low. The rally was induced by reports that the company had added materially to its gas reserves through completion of three new wells.

American Window Glass Machine common had the widest move in the list, dropping back 2 points to 26 on an odd lot sale. There was no news to account for the recession other than that a thin market existed and the order to sell found no buyers in the market at the previously prevailing level. Pittsburgh Plate Glass new stock held steady at 71, but was very quiet.

Miscellaneous industrials were also quiet and prices showed no material changes. United Engineering and Foundry opened the market with an odd lot sale at 43, down a point, but no more stock appeared on the board during the session. Waverly Oil was a point higher at 34, reflecting the general strength in the oil group on the "big board."

In the bank section, First National scored a new high at 405, up 5 points from the last previous sale. Peoples Savings and Trust also reached new high ground at 700, up 20 points from the last previous price, recorded about two weeks ago.

OPERATIONS AT MINES HERE IMPROVE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

PRODUCTION of the Pittsburgh Coal Company in 1928 will be the greatest of any year since 1923. The extent of the progress made in overcoming operating problems can be seen when it is realized that 1923, with its output of 13,915,588 tons of coal, was the greatest year since the war.

Month by month, since the summer of 1925, when all of the union mines were closed, operations have been showing an almost uninterrupted increase.

October established a new record for open-shop mining in the Pittsburgh district with an output of 1,110,000 tons. This brought production for the 10 months up to 8,559,404 tons, an increase of 1,880,404 tons over the corresponding period of 1927.

If coal continues to pour through the tipples at the same rate for the remainder of the year an output of about 10,700,000 tons can be expected in this district. Mines in other districts usually contribute about 1,000,000 tons annually to Pittsburgh Coal's production so that a total for all properties of nearly 12,000,000 tons is probable.

This will compare with 9,128,932 tons in 1927 and with 4,294,579 tons in 1925, the poorest year from an operating standpoint.

ALTHOUGH the company has restored operations to a normal basis at a wage scale which permits competition with other districts, the financial side of the picture is not bright.

Operations are understood to be at a slight profit at present but the annual report for 1928 is expected to show a loss. This will not be as great as in 1927 which went $1,880,596 in the red, but many changes will have to take place in the coal business before the company will show a satisfactory profit. As a result of its costly strike Pittsburgh Coal lost $2,114,676 in 1926 and $1,266,940 in 1925. A small profit was shown in 1924.

There is a market for a large volume of coal production at present, but the tremendous surplus capacity of the industry makes it impossible to advance prices to profitable levels. If any marked increase should take place many idle mines would resume work which would again depress the market.

PITTSBURGH COAL has been doing more than merely fighting a union during the past four years. It has completely revolutionized its operating methods. High cost mines have been either abandoned or their workings consolidated with other properties. The number of mines has been cut in half in the Pittsburgh district. Electric locomotives have replaced mules at many workings. Modern tipples with every improved operating feature are contributing to the reduction of costs. Machine cutting and loading is being increased.

In the three years ended December 31, 1927, three tipples and a coal-cleaning plant were built and other improvements were made, costing $7,700,000.

This year three more coal cleaning plants have been under construction. One has been completed and the other two will be in operation before the end of the year. Plants of this type for the preparation of coal are an innovation in this district. They will make it possible for the company to meet every consumer requirement with about 20 sizes and types of coal.

In spite of losses totaling $5,262,212 in three years, the company was able to continue in a good current financial condition. At the end of 1927 current assets were $15,099,712 against current liabilities of $5,598,148. Cash totaled $2,177,592. Notes payable amounted to $1,473,832.

Retail Trade Quickens.

Bradstreet's trade review says: Retail trade has quickened and wholesale and jobbing lines have been stimulated. Textile industry, the third great element in the country's business, has maintained its relatively more favorable situation. For these favorable developments, cold weather has come in for more mention. In the crop situation, too, cold weather has figured favorably, because aiding the husking and movement of new crop corn, although a great deal of the corn husked has figured in animal feeding rather than in market movement. Of the year's most important crops, cotton alone is still, in being, in the fields, but of the other four has been active, and in the Southwest concededly small yields of this crop and of corn, which have unfavorably affected business, have, largely speaking, ceased to be affected by the weather. In the West and Southwest rain and, later, snow seem to have given the 1929 crop of winter wheat needed moisture and a good start in germination.

COAST ELEVENS IN TITLE BATTLES

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(AP.)—The most impressive array of clashes of the season, the results of which possibly will determine Pacific coast championship honors, was offered coast football followers today.

Three undefeated elevens staked their hopes of victory on two major conflicts, the outcome of which was admittedly doubtful. The undefeated and untied Stanford Cardinals faced at Los Angeles the baffling offensive of the University of Southern California, hoping to hold its place at the top of the standing. The University of California was confronted at Berkeley with a strong eleven from the University of Oregon. Neither California nor Southern California has been defeated, but they battled each other to a scoreless tie two weeks ago. Therefore, the two games may go far toward determining conference honors.

STANFORD FAVORED

Coach Pop Warner, of Stanford, placed his hopes for victory on his newest offering to the football world, the "B" formation, that has swept three Coast elevens to defeat this season. Howard Jones, Trojan coach, pronounced his squad in as nearly perfect condition as possible, although he has shown no particular optimism over the outcome. Stanford has been given slight odds. Last year the teams tied at 13 to 13.

The University of Oregon gridders have shown a decided development since their early season defeat by Stanford and presented the Golden Bears, of California, with a difficult problem. Rain, which started last night, was expected to prove some hindrance to the Northerners as they depend largely on a speedy, tricky offense.

Other conference battles brought the University of Idaho and Washington State College together at Moscow.

Oregon State College was expected to win from the University of Montana, at Corvallis. The Montanans have failed to win a conference game so far.

The University of Washington had a non-conference member, the College of Puget Sound, as its foe, at Tacoma.

FOOTBALL

fornia at Berkeley and Cornell-Columbia at New York.

Here are 10 games over a widespread area that alone should contribute around 600,000 to the game's astonishing attendance figures.

What of the "dope" and prospects in the contests that carry the main share of championship hopes and aspirations? The experts, after a rough October siege, are a bit wary. They have emerged from the scramble of figures and portents, however, with sufficient unity to establish favorites in the following important events:

New York University to beat Georgetown in a battle between two of the East's leading unbeaten arrays.

Yale to conquer Dartmouth, because the latter faces a double-barrier—the Eli jinx and a crop of injuries.

Ohio State to beat Princeton, with the play a deciding factor.

Cornell to nose out Columbia in a tight battle.

Wisconsin to defeat Alabama.

Nebraska to trim Kansas.

Utah to vanquish Colorado College.

Southern Methodist to check the Texas rush.

Stanford to beat Southern California in another close affair.

Notre Dame to beat Penn State.

MANY CLOSE TILTS

Caution strikes the hardy critic at this juncture, however, to the extent that in most of the other outstanding games a toss-up is the best average of opinion. Into this class go such games as Pennsylvania-Chicago, Holy Cross-Brown, Pittsburgh-Syracuse, Illinois-Michigan, California-Oregon and Minnesota-Northwestern.

The impact of Georgetown's steam roller with New York University's Juggernaut should be heard all along the Eastern seaboard. In its importance to claims upon the Eastern title it overshadows the Yale-Dartmouth game, the edge of which has been a bit dulled by the defeats these two early-season favorites absorbed last week at the hands of Army and Harvard. This week the Cadets take it easy against Depauw, while the Crimson seconds oppose Lehigh.

Michigan hopes to follow the example of the Navy, and, before a home crowd of possibly 85,000, end the Wolverine losing streak at the expense of Illinois. If this is accomplished, the Illini will be dropped from the top group of the Big Ten, now shared with Ohio State and Iowa.

Nebraska, after the Huskers' crushing defeat of Missouri, is confident of moving along toward the Big Six title over the opposition of Kansas, just as Utah's adherents predict the momentum their great team has gained so far will carry it through Colorado College's defense and toward the Rocky Mountain peaks again.

Pop Warner's Stanford Cardinals are out to stick around the Pacific Coast Conference top for the third straight year, but they must shake off their 1927 championship rival, Southern California, to do it. These teams are only a single point apart in two years of fierce competition. They tied last year at 13-13, and Stanford won in 1926 by 13-12. It would not be surprising to see another close conflict, even though the Cardinals have the heaviest backing.

SCORES 26TH KNOCKOUT

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Freddie Polo, Newark welterweight, scored his twenty-sixth knockout in stopping Jackie Horner, of St. Louis, in the second round of a 10 round bout here last night. Horner went down for nine and later was dropped with a right hander on the jaw for the 10 count.

BRUCE KAYOES BLAIR

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Sam Bruce, Nashville Negro, weighing 140, knocked out Kid Blair, 141, of Utica, in the third round here last night. Tommy Paul, 117½, Buffalo, knocked out Pancho Dario, 119, Filipino, in the first round. Mickey O'Donnell, 133½, defeated Tommy Mitchell, 133½, Toronto, in six rounds.

TUG PHILLIPS BEATEN

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 2.—(AP.)—Johnny Dunn, New Kensington, kayoed Johnny Wilde, Newark, O., 3 rounds; Johnny Carey, Erie, defeated Tug Phillips, Pittsburgh, 10 rounds; Pat Freeman, Erie, kayoed Dick Gibbons, McKeesport, 6 rounds, here last night.

SCHENLEY LEADER CALLS THE TOSS

GET-TOGETHER "JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE"

Schenley High School lost a hard-fought battle to Peabody High in Section II of the City League yesterday on the Peabody field, but it wasn't because the Bellefielders didn't gain an early advantage. Capt. Bud Loder, of Schenley, called the toss of the coin which Referee Sterritt flipped and had his choice of goals. The photo above shows the officials, coaches and captains. Left to right are Capt. Bill Chisler, of Peabody; Referee Sterritt, Headlinesman Black, Umpire Harrison, Coach Walter Gross and Capt. Bud Loder, of Schenley, and Coach Hugh Lambie, of Peabody.

look very impressive and then have things happen to them. Perhaps the fact that they have a faculty for meeting rivals when the latter are primed for anything up to murder may have something to do with the ill fortune that trails the Orange. One thing is certain, and that is that Pitt, with that Tech game of last week under its belt, is "up there" for today's fray, and it would not be surprising to see the battle develop into just another football game and a little more hard luck for the invaders.

ALTHOUGH there are many rival attractions, such as the Penn-Chicago, Notre Dame-Penn State and Ohio State-Princeton battles carded today, most of the interest among the big wigs of the collegiate football realm centers upon one and ONLY ONE contest, the same being that mighty tussle between Chick Meehan's blushing New York University Violets and Lou Ile's gigantic Georgetown Gluttons, in New York. They are two of the most powerful elevens in the land, and something is likely to drop when they hook up. And it may be both of them. For your private information, and I hope you make the most of the tip, if any, neither of these outfits is so hot. As proof I offer the fact that West Virginia Wesleyan scored a touchdown on each, losing to N. Y. U., 26-7, and to Georgetown, 34-7. Discounting the Wesleyan seven points in each game, it may be plainly seen that Georgetown has an edge of eight points. It is very simple to dope these games if you only know how. But, then, neither N. Y. U., nor Georgetown is playing Wesleyan today.

Kid Chocolate, the little Negro bantamweight, who has taken New York by storm, fights almost as often as our own Dominick Profio, who, according to his manager, Reed Brown, will be laid up for a much-needed rest following his bout with Jack O'Keefe at East Liverpool, O., next Monday night. Lil Chocolate knocked out Joey Ross in one round in New York last Monday night and tonight he goes to the post again, against Frisco Grande. The Kid is a natural showman and is the best drawing card at the smaller clubs in New York and soon will graduate to the big time in Madison Square Garden. He will return shortly for a visit to his native Havana, Cuba, where the home folks, thrilled by his success in New York, are clamoring to see him in action. His opponent there likely will be Chick Suggs, veteran Negro bantamweight, and it is expected that a crowd of more than 25,000 will witness the homecoming spectacle.

ELMER LAYDEN and Dyke Beede hook up again today. It will be their third meeting. The first was as rival backs in the memorable battle between Carnegie Tech and Notre Dame at Forbes Field in the fall of 1924. Layden's last year as a member of the Four Horsemen backfield of the Irish. That afternoon Beede ran Rockne's men dizzy with the famous spinner play and the half ended with the teams deadlocked at 19-19. Notre Dame then pulled itself together to win, 40-19. The next clash between Layden and Beede occurred last year, with Elmer as head coach of Duquesne University and Beede in a similar capacity at Westminster College. The Dukes won the game, 10-0, and today the elevens meet again, on the Bluff.

The 26-6 victory scored by the Pitt Freshmen over Kiski at saltsburg yesterday speaks volumes. It has been a long time since Kiski has taken a shellacking of such proportions, and it generally knocks the stuffing out of college freshman elevens. The Pitt cubs must be good.

TIGER RUNNERS LOSE

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Placing three men among the first four to finish, Lafayette College yesterday defeated Princeton University in a dual cross-country run, 25 to 32. Masterson of Lafayette led Whitehead of Princeton by less than 5s yards to capture first place over the Paxinosa Mountain course.

SUSPENDED ICE STARS DRILL

By CARL W. SHATTO.

THE receipt of formal notification of their suspension from President Frank Calder, of the National Hockey League, did not keep Roy Worters, Harold Darragh and Hib Milks, holdouts, from working out with the local skaters at Duquesne Garden last night.

With McKinnon, Smith, Sullivan, Drury, White, McCurry and Frazier making up one team and Worters, Holway, McCaffery, Darragh, Cotton and Milks the other sextet.

Every player on the Pirate roster participated in a practice game that lasted more than an hour, and the play was fast and spirited throughout. One team was made up of Worters at goal, McCaffery and Holway at defense, Sullivan and Drury at center and White and McCurry at wing, and the other consisted of Frazier at goal, Smith and McKinnon at defense, Milks at center and Darragh and Cotton at wing.

Manager Odie Cleghorn threw seven men into the one lineup so as to make it more difficult for Milks, Darragh and Cotton, prospective regular forwards, to break through. Holway played in brilliant form and indications are that he will win a regular defense berth. Sullivan's play was somewhat ragged and it appears that he has yet to attain top form.

The gym work, according to Manager Cleghorn, is a big help in getting the men into top physical condition, but it is proving a painful process. The unusual exercise has left the Pirate skipper so stiff and sore that walking is a task and the players are experiencing the same trouble.

WESTERN GRID

pare for their battle with Minnesota a week hence.

In other years a Michigan-Illinois battle would be the piece de resistance of the football menu, but the Ohio State-Princeton conflict takes top ranking, with both teams aspiring to the mythical national championship honors.

Princeton defeated Ohio State, 20 to 0, last year, but the Buckeye team of 1928 has been playing in a manner to rival the teams developed by Coach Wilce before Ohio's massive new stadium was built.

Although past performances give the Illini a wide edge in their game, there is a feeling of calamity in the air, as there was at Iowa City a week ago, before the Hawkeyes upset Minnesota. The Wolverine followers figure their team has just begun to fight and whisper that a surprise may be sprung.

ILLINOIS TO CUT LOOSE

Illinois, seeking its eighth straight conference victory, will take no chances. Indications are Coach Zuppke is ready to cut loose and show the real strength of his team. He intends to start his first string players instead of starting off with a second string backfield, as has been his custom.

Pennsylvania seems certain of getting revenge for the 12-to-7 lacing the Maroons gave it last year. Although Chicago has been walloped in four out of five starts, Coach Stagg's team now appears to be a bit stronger because of the return of some of the cripples, but the Midway followers entertain no hopes for a victory.

With Minnesota still reeling under injuries and the 7-to-6 defeat administered by Iowa, Northwestern has hopes the Wildcats can emulate the feat of the Hawkeyes, and so hand the Gophers a trimming. Minnesota will take the field without the services of Bronko Nagarski, the big pulverizing fullback, and also Duke Johnson, one of the mainstays of the line. But the team still has plenty of power with Hovde as the real threat of the Minnesota offense. Northwestern may elect to play a passing game, as going through the Gopher line has proved a tough job for other opponents.

ST. VINCENT'S ELEVEN ENCOUNTERS ST. FRANCIS

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 2.—St. Francis and St. Vincent's will play their annual football game here this afternoon before a large crowd, probably the biggest that has turned out at a similar event in years. St. Francis is the favorite. St. Vincent's students held a big bonfire on the campus last night and later marched, cheering and yelling, throughout Latrobe.

Lavigne Benefit Fight Show Hits Reef

DETROIT, Nov. 2.—(AP.)—A proposed benefit boxing show for the widow of Kid Lavigne hit a promotional reef and was canceled here last night when a creditors' attachment against the gate receipts was served shortly after the first preliminary had been run off.

EASTERN GRID

terest on the eastern front will be such "naturals" as the game between Columbia and Cornell at New York, Yale and Dartmouth at New Haven, Brown and Holy Cross at Providence, Pittsburgh and Syracuse at Pittsburgh, Lafayette and W. & J. at Easton, Bucknell and Villa Nova at Scranton.

Notre Dame and Penn State at Philadelphia put on the big intersectional contest of the day in the East, while Princeton and Pennsylvania go west. The Hoosiers, having steadied after a few bad weeks, are generally favored, but State, too, has signified a turn for the better by virtue of a tie with Syracuse last week.

AIM TO BEAT ELIS

In color and fight the Yale-Dartmouth game promises to hold its own with any. Like Penn State, which never has beaten Notre Dame, Dartmouth has yet to down the Elis, although they have been playing football against each other off and on since 1884. Yale probably will rule a slight favorite on the ground that it was beaten by Army and also on the basis of that persistent Indian sign on the crippled Indians.

As for Columbia and Cornell, the upstate institution is the favorite, perhaps because of the Red team's showing in holding Princeton to a 3-to-0 score.

BROWN HAS EDGE

The home-field angle also gives Brown what slight advantage there might be in the game with Holy Cross. Villa Nova's clean record indicates a good chance against Bucknell. Lafayette and W. & J. two other sturdy Pennsylvania rivals, have undergone extensive shake-ups which make the issue more cloudy than before.

Among the teams that face more lowly opponents in mid-season breathers, besides the Army, are Harvard, which takes on Lehigh; Navy playing West Virginia Wesleyan, and Boston College, which should uphold its unbeaten record against Manhattan. Two Middlewestern opponents invade upstate New York, Wabash coming east to attempt to repeat its victory of last season over Colgate and Oberlin playing Rochester.

FOLINS VICTOR

UNION CITY, N. J., Nov. 2.—Herman Folins of Ambridge won his third decision in two weeks at the Oakland Club over Carman Rohman in six rounds. Folins made a big bit with his style of milling and is wanted at the same club again in two weeks.

NOTED SIRE DIES

CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind., Nov. 2.—The noted sire, Argot Hal, 2:04½, pacing; 2:07½, trotting, passed away at the Cedar Hill Stock Farm here. He was a member of the famous family of Hals, being by Brown Hal-Lady Wildflower, and sired many fast performers.

EIGHT TIED GAMES

There were eight tied games in the American Association this year, all teams but Indianapolis and St. Paul being involved.

CUNNINGHAM NOW COACH

SHARPSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 2.—John Cunningham, former St. Bonaventure College star, is now assistant line coach at St. Francis College. Cunningham is considered as one of the best linemen developed at St. Bonaventure.

HUNTER SHOOTS FINGERS OFF

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP.)—Wade Brumbaugh, 16, of near Oil City, had two fingers of his left hand blown off and his thumb lacerated and burned when a shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was returning from a hunting trip.

HIT-RUN VICTIM DIES; DRIVER SUSPECT HELD

ROCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 3.—Victim of a hit-run driver, Sebastian Camarata, 27, died in the Rochester General Hospital early today. Police arrested Walter Anderson, of Freedom, alleged driver of the car. He will be given a hearing tonight.

2 JUDGES WILL TRY RUM RING PLOT CASES

There will be more than one trial start in Federal Court November 13 as a result of the indictments returned by the United States grand jury probing booze conspiracies here.

While Judge R. M. Gibson is presiding at the trial of some 50 North Side defendants arraigned for conspiracy, Judge F. P. Schoonmaker or Judge Nelson McVicar will be hearing the perjury charges against six persons whose testimony before the grand jury was doubted by United States attorneys.

Mrs. Mary Drozah is listed to go on trial the first day and the others will be arraigned during the following week, one each day. The others are Philip Suffrin, Joseph Menezel, Jacob Sablosky, Mark B. Epstein and Thomas J. Howley. In addition to the cases of those indicted as a result of the probe, there are many other cases awaiting disposition. Two hundred and fifty-three are scheduled for this term of court, most of them violations of the liquor laws.

HURT IN CRASH, SUES FARMER

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 3.—George Zobruck, Aliquippa, has entered suit for $10,000 damages against Clarence Hineman, Independence township farmer. Zobruck says he was run down by an automobile of the defendant, June 5, last, and suffered a compound fracture of the right leg.

In Memoriam 1-B

In loving memory of our mother and grandmother, HARRIET PLATTS, who died one year ago today, November 3, 1927.
It seems we scarcely knew her—in her many years on earth—
Nor realized till she had gone her wondrous woman's worth.
With aching hearts we knew too late there never was another,
So fine and true the whole way through as she whom we called mother.
Sadly missed by her children and grandchildren.

Public Workers Owe Jobs To People, Not Politics

It probably will do no good to tell employes of the city and county not to submit to being "gouged" for a "voluntary" contribution to the campaign fund of any party. They will feel that they are under the eyes of their bosses and that their jobs might be endangered if they refused to give. Yet there is no reason why a member of a political party working for the city or county should give financial support to his party unless he feels it is his duty or desire. What a protest there would be were the employes of private concerns told they must contribute to funds of the party which the owner of the concern favored.

County Commissioner Armstrong is quoted as saying to county department heads that the Commissioners were elected by the Republican party, hence all employes of the county owed their jobs to the Republicans. The Commissioners and all other employes owe their jobs to the people. On strictly party lines most of them owe two-thirds of their jobs to the Republican majority and one-third to the Independent minority on the Board of Commissioners. So if there be any hold-up of the payroll on that score, one-third of it should go to forces independent of the Republican organization.

Now, we realize that parties need funds to conduct campaigns and that members of the parties must contribute them. What the public objects to is the demand made upon public employes. Not particularly through sympathy for them as much as a matter of public interest. Such a practice tends to build up and keep in force a political ring—and we all know the evil results of ring politics.

Gardner Assured of Funds To Make Probe Thorough

It is promised that the request of District Attorney Gardner for $3,000 for extra help to carry on the grand jury probe of Pittsburgh's vice and crime ring will be appropriated by the County Commissioners. Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, has given assurance that the money will be granted at the next meeting.

While the commissioners could do nothing less, considering the public feeling aroused by the revelations of corruption, it is satisfying to know that Mr. Gardner is receiving co-operation in his work from another important branch of the county government. He has the support of the public and there has existed no doubt that he would receive aid he needs in an official way. He is engaged in a work that the public wishes to see completed with a thoroughness that will permit no suspicion that some things may have been covered or that his inquiry had been hampered through lack of co-operation.

The District Attorney has promised that he will extend protection to no one—not even his best friend, politically, if the probe should enmesh him, and the people are relying on that pledge. If he needs more than $3,000 he should get it. The public demands that a dirty mess be cleaned up and it is not going to be stingy in payment of the laundry bill.

Let's Make This November Month of "No Accidents"

November, in recent years, has been designated "No-Accident Month," so for the next four weeks we are all asked to be especially careful. Mayor Kline has given official recognition to the period through a proclamation urging us to co-operate with the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council in making this month one in which the final week will find all of us with additional reason for being grateful on Thanksgiving Day, which is coupled in the slogan—"Thanksgiving-No-Accident-Month."

In his proclamation Mayor Kline has asked clergymen to make safety appeals from their pulpits and teachers to emphasize to their pupils the idea of being careful. The latter will find the ground well prepared for them among the little ones who are members of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's "Just Kids' Safety Club," the slogan of which is "Look up and down before you cross the street."

"Look up and down." That could well be the motto for all of us, whether we are crossing the street or doing anything else, from stepping out of a slippery bathtub to reaching too far from a stepladder while hanging a picture. "Look up and down" and you may find around the home fire hazards which Mayor Kline urges be removed. "Look up and down" is just another way of saying "Be careful" and "Watch your step."

Industries have made notable records in reducing accidents by special safety effort. The public can do the same if it will.

Big Business Gobbles Art

More Money for Artists.

Business gets bigger in all directions. Nothing can or SHOULD stop it.

It began with oil, steel, pork, etc., and now includes art.

One big merger absorbs twenty famous concert stars, including Hofmann and Mary Lewis. It is the biggest singing merger ever formed in the United States and will probably be on the Stock Exchange later. Then speculators will talk of vocal chords, and worry in bad weather.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

YOU have contracted more debts than you can see your way clear to pay by the specified time according to your own agreement with your debtors.

You are greatly worried, but worry won't gain you anything.

You should have done a little figuring before you went so deeply in debt.

You planned certain economies and this saving plus the earnings you expect to make are what you thought would see you through.

Unexpected expenses have come and you are in a financial jam.

It's unwise to figure on meeting debts with a sum that must be accumulated by smooth sailing, with no allowance for hard knocks.

Things don't go that way.

Drawbacks are constantly around the corner and seem to come out especially strong when you are counting the pennies to make the dollars.

Give yourself some leeway.

Don't plan to spend every cent as fast as it comes in.

All you get out of such a hand-to-mouth plan won't be enough to make up for the nerve-racking uncertainty of how to settle your accounts if illness or accident should occur.

The Sphinx

WITH 43,000,000 men and women qualified to vote through this year's registration, the Riddle of the Sphinx is more than ordinarily perplexing. It is not of record that Egypt's Sphinx ever vouchsafed an answer to its interrogators. From the great body of Americans, however, will come a message next Tuesday so clear and emphatic that we shall say, "Why, of course! The answer was perfectly obvious. Why couldn't we have foreseen it?"

Bible Passages

Wine a Mocker

(Proverbs 20: 1-15.)

WINE is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.

The fear of a king is as the roaring of a lion: whoso provoketh him to anger sinneth against his own soul.

It is an honour for a man to cease from strife: but every fool will be meddling.

The sluggard will not plow by reason of the cold; therefore shall he beg in harvest, and have nothing.

Counsel in the heart of man is like deep water; but a man of understanding will draw it out.

Most men will proclaim every one his own goodness: but a faithful man who can find?

The just man walketh in his integrity: his children are blessed after him.

A king that sitteth in the throne of judgment scattereth away all evil with his eyes.

Who can say, I have made my heart clean, I am pure from my sin?

Divers weights, and divers measures, both of them are alike abomination to the Lord.

Even a child is known by his doings, whether his work be pure, and whether it be right.

The hearing ear, and the seeing eye, the Lord hath made even both of them.

Love not sleep, lest thou come to poverty; open thine eyes, and thou shalt be satisfied with bread.

It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer: but when he is gone his way, then he boasteth.

There is gold, and a multitude of rubies: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.

What Public Wants

THE waning popularity of the prizefighting "game" is in striking contrast with the stupendous crowds that storm the football contests.

Every year the big games at Harvard, Yale and Princeton are sell-outs to the graduates and undergraduates; outsiders do not get a chance. Meanwhile, the big pugilistic event of the year, the Tunney-Heeney fight was not a sell-out, but a blow-up. The victor quit the "game" when the quitting was good.

Clever promoters will turn their attention to promoting what the public wants and not what it does not want.

Isn't It So?

Girls should look before they leap, even in leap year.

A man never gets too old to learn, but he can't always understand.

Lay something by for a rainy day and you'll be pretty sure of fair weather.

Unfortunately, the charity that begins at home makes few friends outside.

Many a man never sees his opportunities till some other fellow has taken advantage of them.

The girl who marries a man to reform him generally spoils a good husband for some other girl.

One trouble with the general situation is that undercover men are given too much blanket authority.

The man who knows he is right and then goes ahead shouldn't be disappointed if the crowd doesn't follow him.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"WHATLL I do?"

Thousands of young people are running around the country at this moment asking that question. They are bright, ambitious young people, recently graduated from high school or college and now bent on hanging up records for themselves. But where will they start?

"I don't want to make the wrong start," comes the answer when you ask why they're loitering. "It's so hard to choose just the right thing. I'm sure if I could find the right thing I could make good in no time, but there seems to be so few opportunities—that is, real opportunities. Of course, anyone can find a job, but that isn't what I want. I want something in my line—"

"And just what is your line?"

"Well—e-e-er—that's hard to tell exactly. You see I'd like something a little different—something that everybody isn't doing. I've often thought about taking up writing. I used to do some pretty good things for our college paper. Do you happen to know of any good opening in writing?"

So it goes. They're not all looking for writing. Sometimes they would accept a first-class chance in interior decorating or sales managership or something else equally ritzy and remunerative. But always they're looking for "just the right thing," wherefore I propose to lend them a friendly hand.

How will you find just the right job? By grabbing off any old job and going through the preliminaries.

"JUST THE RIGHT JOBS" DON'T HAPPEN—THEY ACCUMULATE. THEY ARRIVE WHEN YOU'VE LEARNED YOUR STUFF—AND NOT BEFORE.

It's amazing how much alike all jobs are, fundamentally. You must go through certain experiences and develop certain qualities before you can succeed in any of them. Personally I learned almost all I know about writing by cooking in a kitchen and shoveling muck in a mine.

Timbering shafts and creaming cauliflower may seem a far cry from literature, but they're not. The same qualities which are necessary in good cooking and good mining are also necessary in good writing.

You must learn to stick—you must learn to play with the gang—to laugh at yourself and with the other fellow—to be cool under fire and fiery under coolness—all these qualities are basic to any job. And the first job that comes along will give you your chance to acquire them as well as the hundredth. You won't stay in that job. You won't stay if you have the right stuff in you. But it is as good as any other for teaching you the fundamental principles of all work. So grab the first hunk of labor that presents itself, buddy—and get under way.

OUR OWN PLACE

By Garrett P. Serviss

HOW many planets in the solar system are inhabited? We know of but one—the earth. We think that Venus and Mars may be inhabited, but we do not know, and perhaps shall never know. Nevertheless, the more optimistic and imaginative spirits among us speculate on the possibility that some day we may correspond with intelligent inhabitants of Mars or Venus, or even pay them a visit or receive a visit from them. The realization of either of these expectations would mark a new era in the history of mankind—the first voyage across interplanetary space. Such speculation is encouraged by the coming into existence in France of a society of "astronautics" (star navigation), a society which lives on hope and the future.

The result of this concentration of attention on the other planets which accompany the earth in its voyage with the sun through universal space is to give us an outside point of view from which to regard our own world. By studying the earth as it would appear to inhabitants say of the moon or of Venus we get a very comprehensive and enlightening view of our little globular abiding place, spinning like a tossed ball in the sunshine.

Those who visit the American Museum of Natural History in New York will see on one of its walls a picture by Howard Russell Butler of the earth suspended in the sky above a rugged lunar landscape. This picture is more than a work of art, for its maker was guided by expert scientific knowledge in his painting. It is so far approved by astronomers that a colored reproduction of it appears as frontispiece in the authoritative revision of Prof. Young's "Manual of Astronomy," by Russell, Dugan and Stewart.

This vivid representation of our living world as seen from a distance of a quarter of a million miles makes many spectators stare in wondering surprise. Above the spiring peaks and night-haunted abysses of the white skeletonized moon hangs the richly tinted earth, its huge globe distorted into a strange "gibbous" shape by the fact that the observer on the moon is out of line with the sun behind him, so that the rays of sunlight fail to reach and reveal the left-hand border of the terrestrial sphere. The time of observation is three days before the time of new moon; the place one of the "craters" near the moon's north pole.

In the black sky the earth is spotted green, yellow, blue and white. The clouds are white, a large area of the North Atlantic being concealed under a cyclonic storm. Parts of continental coasts are faintly visible. The equatorial region is marked by a yellowish band, and the Sahara and other cloudless areas are similarly colored. The polar regions are white.

Most remarkable among the special features visible is a phenomenon that could only be seen from an extra-terrestrial point of view—a brilliant reflection of the sun from the surface of the Atlantic off the coast of Africa. To the lunar observer this reflection would appear to change place slowly with the alteration of the relative positions of the earth and the sun.

The uncovered parts of the ocean appear blue, giving a dark contrast to the directly reflected sunlight, the smooth rounded water-surface acting like a convex mirror. Ah, if those imaginary lunar observers could only exist! How they would watch and marvel at that wandering spot of dazzling light, proof in itself, if they had science enough to understand its meaning, that the enormous multi-colored globe hanging in their sky and pouring upon them a "moonlight" 40 times as bright as that which we receive must be a world filled with life. And what a sight for the first mortals who shall set foot on the moon to look back at!

Tales That Are Told

She Knew

THE mistress of the house was giving the new maid, who was fresh from the country, a list of the household requirements.

"There you are, Alice," she said, and then suddenly remembered an item she had almost forgotten. "Oh—er—don't forget we shall want a new griller for the kitchen, too."

Alice stared vacantly.

"Don't you know what a griller is?" asked the other sharply.

"I should think I do," replied the maid significantly. "It's a big, hairy monkey the size of a man. And if you want one of those in your kitchen I'm leaving at once."

Backward

"GIVE me a kiss," he pleaded.

She made no reply.

"Won't you please give me a kiss?" he asked again.

Still no answer.

"Please, please, kiss me!" he begged.

And still no reply.

"I say, are you deaf?" he roared.

"No," she snapped. "Are you paralyzed?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

NOBODY much gives credit to the guy that lends money. Whoever lends money is a Shylock, you hear guys say that borrow the dough. And still, how could these fellows buy railroads and build prizefight rings if it wasn't for the money-lenders?

Anyhow, I hear about a man that was being written up for a success and pep magazine. The writer was asking him how he got to the top of the ladder, and the other fellow was gladly telling him all about it.

"The first time I plunged for forty thousand bucks," he says, "I was wiped out!"

"Well, were you discouraged?" says the writer, taking notes.

"Not a bit of it! I didn't care a whoop! All the money I had borrowed of my father-in-law was wiped out, but what do you suppose I did? I didn't whimper! I went straight to my wife's uncle and borrowed eighty thousand!"

Bagdad

WOULD I might pass through Bagdad's gate!
I know that strange enchantments wait
To greet my rapt and wondering gaze
Down its exotic, fabled ways.

I, who have never journeyed far,
Would gladly seek the gay bazaar,
Or by the rippling Tigris roam
To watch some mosque's great gilded dome.

By night the roofs are cool, the breeze
Comes freshly through the orange trees,
And, past the farthest minaret,
Wide-spaced, the golden stars are set.

I, who have never journeyed far,
Have thrilled with joy at one bright star
That past the Caliph's palace gleams,
For Bagdad waits me — in my dreams.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—New York seems the most fertile of all fields for profligacy. The reckless spender is rarely halted until the sheriff knocks. The latest story concerns a spendthrift who, well oiled with a million dollar legacy, has been tuning up along the Broadway byways.

His final spurt of extravagance was a dinner in the private dining room of a Park avenue restaurant. It was one of those last-word affairs which means gold service, a profusion of rare floral decorations, an expensive orchestra and handsome souvenirs. In the meanwhile——

Four private detectives were stationed near the entrance to prevent bailiffs and bill collectors from reaching the host. The effort to save the wastrel in his career of extravagance is usually hopeless. He often breaks out of a sanitarium to continue his fun.

In the long list of "millionaire kids" who have contributed their brief rockets to the Broadway pyrotechnics, all have wound up dead broke and eventually became objects of charity. Or committed suicide. The Broadway formula is inflexible—booze, a blonde. And oblivion.

Even the hardened Broadwayite who is firm in his argument prohibition is ruining the country will confess drink invariably starts the rich wastrel on his quick journey to poverty. There is no record of a sober White Way spendthrift.

The Broadway good fellowship through rose-colored glasses has its mellowing effect. Money attracts gleaners as treacle flies, and the spender may be certain of his circle of fawning sychophants who will "yes" him as long as he pays the checks.

It is only when the bottom of the purse is reached the spender begins to realize his folly. The parasites are amazingly skillful in flattering him into delusions of grandeur while money lasts. But when it is gone he has become a sap. And Broadway hates a sap.

Broadway has a few types known as "name spenders." They are supposed celebrities who scatter money and are thus distinguished from hoi polloi. The real celebrity is rarely loose with his money. He has grown accustomed to others paying the checks.

An idea of how much may be spent during a night out on Broadway is furnished by a gossip weekly and concerned the expenditures of a gentleman from Salt Lake City entertaining a party of four. An imported automobile for the evening was $25, including a $5 tip for the chauffeur.

Orchids were sent to the two ladies at a cost of $30. Dinner without liquor was $36 and a $4 tip for the waiter. Supper at a night club with a $4 couvert charge was $50 with one bottle of wine an extra $5. The total was $195 and there was no whooping things up.

* * *

A Broadway headwaiter corrects my recent assertion cafe cigaret girls work for a percentage of tips. He says they are paid from $16 to $18 a week, but their tips often average more than $75 a week. They are usually employed by the hat checking concessionaire.

* * *

Albert Payson Terhune is said to receive more mail than any American writer. He writes chiefly about dogs and dog lovers are the most responsive of all readers.

* * *

Broadway is rarely taken for the well known roll in the stock market, but when it is the moaning can be heard in Albany. Recently a Wall street broker made a quick clean up on a fake stock on the White Way, but a study of his books showed most of his victims were women who met his slick salesmen while Broadway slumming.

* * *

A young man in the Bronx refused to go through with the ceremony on his wedding day because he had a past. He confessed that while professing piety he was sneaking off to see burlesque shows. O, the pity of it!

EDUCATION WEEK

By Dr. Frank Crane

November 5 to 11 is indicated as American Education week.

This suggestion is offered by the American Legion, the National Educational Association, and other organizations.

Its object is to call public attention to the schools of the country, their needs and ideals.

During this week at least every parent should visit his child's school. Prior to this week there should be articles on schools in all the newspapers.

These subjects should be stressed as the due objectives of education: Health, home co-operation, technical skill, effectiveness, the wise use of leisure and moral training.

The first of these points is that of health. It includes proper school houses, adequate playgrounds and such subjects. Children are easily the most important things in the community and in our haste to make money we should not forget the welfare of those the money is for.

The second point is that of the home. Let teachers visit the homes of the pupils and see what they can do to secure the assistance of the home in their work.

Wednesday, November 7, is set apart as Know Your School Day. The schoolhouse should be appreciated as the center of communal life, and the school teacher should be exalted as the most important member of the community.

The next point is School Opportunity Day. How children should be trained for vocational efficiency and opportunities for service should here be emphasized. The work of continuation schools, special classes and evening schools should be shown.

Friday, November 9, is Citizenship Day. Every child should be taught how important it is for him to fulfill his civic duties. There can be no successful democratic government that does not begin by teaching democratic responsibility in the schools.

Sunday is Armistice Day. Attention of the children should be called to the patriotic duties of peace. Ministers should tell of the school and build up citizenship.

The Mayor of the town should issue a proclamation making this week sacred to American education.

All churches and fraternal bodies should co-operate.

Newspapers should call attention to the week in their columns.

Plans should be made now for the observance of this week. For the school always has been, is, and always will be the foundation of national life.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

ON New York's Fifth avenue, a fancy food place where smartly dressed people lunch. Smallest waitresses I ever saw and the youngest. They wear ruffled organdy caps on the side of their saucy heads and tiny organdy aprons.

A brunette waitress slides up to the soda fountain and places her orders. Then a blonde, even smaller, slides in ahead of her, gently pushing her back as she remarks: "Pardon YOU! I AM FIRST."

I wondered if gentlemen really prefer blondes, or if this blonde Bambino was indicating how it is that blondes get preferred.

Two girls looking at gowns in a smart shop window.

"I don't like such bright colors," said one of them. "I like the——oh you know—short o' ashes of roses, and pastel and—"

"Yah, I know," said the snappy brunette, "you mean the coax me colors."

A woman teacher from Columbia University tries to register. She shows a Columbia catalogue to prove that she won't need a literary test. It won't do so she must take it just the same.

Then the teacher's daughter steps up, unrolls her high school diploma and beats ma into the registration book.

A Chicago physician says that if you laugh much you will live long. He cites the case of a "hopeless" invalid of 37 who laughed her way back to good health and lived to be 103.

I wish we knew if she was married! And if she laughed AT of WITH.
